Airlift Begun to Ease Congo Famine

EVREUX, France (AP)—The U. S. Air Force today began a giant airlift of food and other supplies to the Congo to halt famine among hundreds of thousands of refugees driven from their land by tribal warfare.

Twenty huge transport planes based in France and West Germany will be used in the operation over the next few days to carry 1,100 tons of supplies solicited from five countries by the U. N. Food and Agriculture Organization (FAO).

The first four planes, C130 Hercules transports, took off from Evreux, about 50 miles northwest of Paris, this morning for Bergen, Norway, to pick up 100 tons of smoked and dried cod. They were to fly on to Luluabourg, in the Congo, arriving Friday or Saturday.

Other Airlift. These other lifts will be conducted within the next few days: From Garoua, Cameroon, about 100 tons of peanuts; from Nairobi, Kenya, 60 tons of tenting material; from Salisbury, Rhodesia, 30 tons of corn; from Entebbe, Uganda, and Ndola, Rhodesia, 800 tons of corn and fish.

The airlift is being conducted by the 322nd Air Division with headquarters at Evreux. The commanding officer, Col. Tarleton H. Watkins of Corpus Christi, Tex., and the mission commander, Lt. Col. William H. Cutler of Philadelphia, went along on the first flights to Norway.

Other planes, including C124s, are scheduled to join the airlift from Rhine Main, Germany, and from Chateauroux, France.

Offers Plan to Pass on Fitness Of Any Governor

MADISON (AP) — Sen. Lynn Stalbaum, D-Racine, introduced a proposal in the State Senate today that would establish a procedure for determining a governor's ability to discharge his duties.

Stalbaum's bill would create a commission including the dean of the University of Wisconsin Medical School, the dean of the Marquette University Medical School and the highest ranking doctor in the State Public Welfare Department's mental hygiene division.

At the written request of State Supreme Court's chief justice, or a constitutional state officer other than the lieutenant governor, the commission would investigate a possible disability of a state chief executive.

The commission's report would be submitted to the state Supreme Court which could by majority vote determine a governor's ability to discharge his duties.

Stalbaum said "the problem of a governor's inability to perform his duties has caused concern in a number of states and that a number of them had provisions in their constitutions to meet such situations."

U.S. Won't Try to Board Captive Ship

Navy Patrol Plane Watches Fleeing Liner; Destroyers Seek to Intercept Vessel

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (AP)—Indicated they were enjoying their shadowed by a U.S. Navy patrol plane, the captive liner Santa Maria raced toward West Africa today, U.S. destroyers set out to intercept the fugitive ship but President Kennedy said American officers had not been ordered to board her.

Portuguese rebel leader Henrique Galvao, commanding the seized liner as "occupied" Portuguese territory in his revolt, launched on the high seas, boldly announced his destination as Angola, the ancient Portuguese colony on the coast of southwest Africa.

Could Swing Back But this could be a ruse to mislead interceptors. The Santa Maria—at last report half way between Puerto Rico and West Africa and heading on a southeasterly course—still was in a position to swing back toward South America.

Galvao, in a radio talk with the U.S. Naval pilot who tracked him down, refused to turn around and go to San Juan and bluntly told him: "Destination Angola."

But he added: "Will accept conference on board Santa Maria with U.S. authorities or any other than Portuguese or Spanish (Salazar's close ally)."

The 66-year-old rebel leader, a former army captain and leading Portuguese writer, told the Navy pilot, Lt. (j.g.) Daniel L. Krauss, he wanted to "discharge passengers unharmed—earliest." He has aboard 600 passengers, including 38 Americans, but messages from the Americans to their families.

Military Junta Tries to Upset Leftist Regime in El Salvador

GUATEMALA (AP)—Control of neighboring Nicaragua, said a Prime Minister Fidel Castro had the upper hand in El Salvador, delayed recognition of the new regime until it had sent a Latin liner was grounded by fog at American expert to look into the situation. It finally extended recognition Dec. 4.

These travelers said martial law has been clamped on the tense situation. Other reports reaching Zapote Fort in San Salvador, Guatemala told of looting in downtown San Salvador with some stores ransacked.

Communications Cut All normal communications with the city were cut off, but commercial planes still used the capital's airport, six miles outside the city.

Seen as Bid For Better Relations

WASHINGTON — President Kennedy announced with dramatic impact Wednesday night that the Soviet Union has freed two crewmen of a U.S. reconnaissance plane the Soviets shot down over Arctic waters last July 1.

Kennedy calmly made the electrifying disclosure at his first news conference as President. He also announced he was continuing the ban on U.S. espionage flights over Soviet territory.

Kennedy hailed release of the airmen as amounting to removal of "a serious obstacle to improvement of Soviet-American relations."

The Soviet government called it a reflection of a serious desire to open a new stage in relations — gravely strained since last spring—between the two powers.

No U.S. Concessions Kennedy said in response to questions that this country made no concessions to the Kremlin to win release of the fliers — Capt. Freeman B. Olmstead of Elmira, N.Y., and Capt. John R. McKone of Topeka, Kan.

The President reported the men were turned loose at 2 a.m. Eastern Standard Time, Wednesday, and were en route back to the United States. They arrived by plane in Amsterdam, The Netherlands, three hours after Kennedy's announcement.

At his news conference, broadcast nationwide on live television and radio, Kennedy was not asked whether the United States or the Soviet Union had taken the initiative toward release of the fliers whose downed plane was an Air Force RB47, and the President did not reply directly to a question.

Former Pastmaster General Succumbs TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)—Walter F. Brown, 91, former U. S. postmaster general, died today in his suite at a downtown hotel.

Brown, a native of Massillon, Ohio, was postmaster general during the administration of Herbert Hoover.

An attorney, he also served for many years as chairman of the Hudson & Manhattan Railroad Co.

No Censorship "There is no intention to stifle, censor or manipulate information," he declared. "We are not trying to cut off full discussion, but to coordinate information so that, on matters of settled policy, we speak with one voice."

Such a policy, he added, "might help to eliminate such confusion" as there was at the time the U2 spy plane was shot down over Russia.

The plane was first described as an innocent weather-study craft that got off course. In the end President Eisenhower admitted it was a spy plane and took responsibility for the flight.

Wives and Parents Thrilled by Release

Released Airmen Due to Reach Capital Tomorrow

WASHINGTON (AP)—The two American fliers released from Soviet custody are expected to reach Washington Friday afternoon, 8:35 a.m. EST.

Present prospects are that they will land at nearby Andrews Air Force Base some time after-noon Friday.

Wives of the two men were at Andrews around noon today from Topeka, Kan., the home of McKone.

Wives At Air Base They will remain at the air base tonight.

Salinger said an Air Force physician accompanied the wives on their flight in an Air Force plane. Mrs. Olmstead, he said, expects to have a baby in another month or so.

Salinger said that Kennedy plans to greet McKone and Olmstead at the airport, where they may make a brief statement but will not hold any interviews.

McKone and Olmstead are the only known survivors of the U.S. RB47 reconnaissance plane which the Russians shot down over the Barents Sea last July 1.

There were six U.S. airmen in the plane. The Russians returned the body of one man to this coun-try.

Some Republicans Fear Live TV Coverage May Involve Dangers

WASHINGTON (AP) President Kennedy's first presidential news conference drew admiring comment from Democratic leaders.

Some Republicans said they thought the idea of live television coverage was risky and should be stopped.

All hailed the release of two American airmen by the Russians as good news. Republican Sen. Frank Carlson of Kansas called it "the best news I have heard in a decade."

Sen. Paul H. Douglas, D-Ill., said "President Kennedy showed himself again to be amazingly lucid and surefooted, and also refreshingly grammatical."

Praise From Leaders Speaker of the House Sam Rayburn, D-Tex., said "I think the president made a very fine statement first before the questioning. I think he responded fully and very sensibly to all of the questions asked."

His counterpart in the senate, Majority Leader Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., said "I marveled at how well he handled himself."

Sen. George D. Aiken, R-Vt., said the live televising of news conference "be rather risky performance. I am disturbed that answers to questions can lead to misunderstanding and the drawing of wrong inferences."

Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., said "I think that in view of President Kennedy's great ability and his poise it is a fine idea. I recognize the risks involved but I believe that is more than compensated for by a greater public understanding."

Rep. Walter Judd, R-Minn., said "It is a little reckless to do it. Nobody is infallible. One can make a slip and misrepresent a situation. It would be better to give the President a chance to hold up what may not have been his real views. He should have a chance to revise. This is not a cover-up, but gives him a chance to later present his real views."

Seek Passage of Condemnation Law

Governor Says Plan Would End Restrictions Which Currently Are Slowing Urban Development

MADISON (AP) — A constitutional amendment to allow cities to condemn private property without a jury verdict of necessity was recommended for passage by the Senate Judiciary Committee Wednesday.

Gov. Gaylord Nelson, in a statement, said the amendment would end "an unreasonable, time-consuming and expensive restriction" which is slowing urban renewal and development projects in Wisconsin.

He pointed out that the state, counties, towns and public utilities have the power that would be granted communities if the proposal becomes law.

The measure, in the form of a proposed constitutional amendment was passed by the 1959 Legislature. If it passes again this year and is approved in a statewide referendum, it will become law.

Favor Proposal

Nearly 20 persons appeared in favor of the proposal.

The lone objector was Milwaukee County Supervisor Joseph Greco, a former Democratic assemblyman.

Greco contended that the issue was not one of urban renewal but whether a person has the right to have a jury trial when a city or village condemns his property.

The Judiciary Committee recommended the amendment 4-1. The only member voting against passage was Sen. Leland, McParland, D-Cudahy. He said his vote was a matter of "principle."

Among supporters of the proposal was Milwaukee Mayor Henry Maier, a former state senator.

Salary Increase

In another action the committee recommended a constitutional amendment to permit salary increases for certain public officers during their terms of office and spelling out the eligibility of retired judges to serve as reserve judges.

Philip S. Habermann, executive secretary of the Wisconsin State Bar, said the salary increase ban is particularly unfair to judges elected to six or 10 year terms. The committee also recommended

School Law Word Change Is Postponed

State Senate Holds Up Action On Redistricting

MADISON (AP)—Action on a proposed three-word change in the 1959 law authorizing unified school districts was held up Wednesday by the Senate Education Committee.

Chairman Sen. Peter Carr, R-Janesville, decided to postpone a vote after a lengthy discussion involving representatives of the State Department of Public Instruction, the attorney general's office, the city of Racine and other organizations.

The changes would merely clarify that municipalities as well as counties could form unified school districts and that the districts could include more than a single village, according to Sen. Lynn Staib, D-Racine, author of the proposed changes.

Action Started

Thomas P. Corbett, Racine city attorney, asked that the wording of the law be cleared up quickly since his city already has started to move toward a unified school district.

It was pointed out that numerous municipalities and counties planning to form unified school districts could be affected if the law's language is not clarified.

Fond du Lac is "in a quandary" because of the wording of the law, it was testified.

Opposition to the proposed wording changes was voiced by Melvin Murrack, appearing for the Racine Taxpayers Association. He said the change is opposed "because it loosens the requirement under which a unified school district can be formed."

Carr defended the law, saying the unified school district is the best way to provide a good education for all Wisconsin children.

Victor Kimball, assistant superintendent of public instruction, told the committee the aim of the 1959 law is to reduce the approximately 2,200 state school districts to 700 by July, 1962 and to about 400 eventually.

Caplin Spells Out His Philosophy on Taxes

Believes Public Confidence Must be Restored in Present Federal System

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va. (AP)—Mortimer M. Caplin, the man income and dividends received to be the nation's chief tax collector, thinks public confidence in the federal tax structure needs to be restored.

Caplin, a 44-year-old attorney and university professor, believes this can be done by broadening and simplifying the tax base so that persons of equal income would be taxed on an equal basis.

He is a native New Yorker who practices law in the firm which includes William C. Battle, close friend and Virginia campaign manager for President Kennedy. The president has selected Caplin to be commissioner of internal revenue.

Caplin teaches corporate and tax law at his alma mater—the University of Virginia.

As an undergraduate, he won laurels scholastically and in the boxing ring.

He has spelled out his tax philosophy in an article he wrote for the Virginia law review—a magazine he edited as a law student—and in testimony before the house Ways and Means Committee.

To restore public confidence in the tax structure, Caplin advocates reductions in the tax rate for both higher and lower income brackets. He would cut the upper level to 65 per cent and the lower level to 10 per cent.

But he would exact a price for this.

In the upper bracket, he would eliminate or revise capital gains relief and other special treatments. In the bottom level, he would eliminate sick pay and divi-

Kennedy Serious in Manner, Appearance At News Conference

President Picks Words Carefully; Deftly Fields Reporters Questions

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy has been in office only six days but the crushing problems and mighty responsibilities of it already have stamped him in manner and appearance. He was a deeply serious man Wednesday in his first presidential news conference.

He listened intently, with total concentration, to the questions. Sometimes, he looked a little wary. Once or twice, a slight frown notched his forehead between his eyes. He spoke more slowly than usual, carefully choosing his words. He smiled only once—whereas, before, a certain jauntiness and sparkling humor invariably appeared when he met the correspondents.

First on TV
This first news conference also was history's first live-televised presidential question and answer session. (President Eisenhower held one in San Francisco prior to the 1956 Republican convention, but it was about politics, not the problems of government.)

This fact, however, probably did not account for the deeply thoughtful, almost preoccupied air that Kennedy wore.

He had appeared on TV many times, as a senator and a candidate, and deftly fielded questions from reporters. The camera never appeared to awe him.

Nor did he give any sign that he was conscious of a vast TV audience watching him and the radio audience listening to the broadcast from the auditorium in the State Department.

He looked, if anything, even more solemn during the 36½ minutes of the conference than he looked last Friday noon when he took the oath of office.

Arrives Early
The president entered the building 15 minutes before the scheduled start of the conference. He waited in a reception room with Pierre Salinger, his press secretary, and Andrew T. Hatcher, assistant to Salinger.

By that time, there were 418 correspondents and cameramen in the auditorium, the guard at the door said.

Sense of Timing
At 6:01½ p.m. Kennedy came through a side door. With his characteristic long stride, and slightly forward stoop, he stepped up to the lectern. The lights poured down from above were exceedingly bright—and hot.

Hours before, technicians had been adjusting cameras and lights and testing the acoustics in the auditorium. Bill Wilson, a TV compounds of flour, 2½ pounds of sultana, cautioned the reporters to speak up in asking questions. Special microphones were focused on each questioner.

Kennedy appeared only once to have missed part of a question.

He quickly demonstrated three qualities.

First, a dramatic sense of timing. He opened the conference with some announcements. But he put the biggest news last, the news that the Soviet Union had released two American flyers who were shot down in the RB-47 plane and imprisoned since last July 1. A gasp ran around the room.

Second, the unmistakable ring of authority. It rang in his voice especially when he said, "I have ordered that they (the U-2 reconnaissance plane flights over the Soviet Union not be resumed.)" And it came again, firmly, when he commented on his first executive order to send more food to depressed areas.

Third, the quick, nimble mind. Usually, while a reporter was still stating his question, Kennedy began nodding slightly. He grasped the intent of a question and had his answer ready immediately. He seldom had to reach for a word.

Democratic Feud
The only time he smiled was when he commented on a feud in the Democratic camp in New York. He said he had asked the Democratic national chairman to "alleviate some of the distress." At that point, for the smallest fraction of a second, he couldn't restrain a grin.

But through most of the 36½ minutes, he was almost painfully grave. Once he said, "The issue of war and peace is involved, and the survival of perhaps the planet, possibly our system."

When he spoke these words, the five days of the presidency showed plainly in Kennedy's face.

Mrs. Cate tried desperately to get back into the house but the dense smoke and flames blocked her.

The victims were identified as Ted Robert, 1; Myra Ann, 2; and Terri Fay, 3.

Release of Fliers May Lead to Talks

Kennedy Sees Many Obstacles in Way of Summit With Khrushchev

WASHINGTON (AP)—Soviet release of two imprisoned American fliers increased today the chances for a meeting between President Kennedy and Premier Khrushchev later this year. But in Kennedy's view many other obstacles to a summit conference must still be cleared away.

Kennedy announced the freeing of the two airmen, Capt. John R. McKone of Topeka, Kan., and Capt. Freeman B. Olmstead of Elmira, N.Y., at his first presidential news conference Wednesday night. It was a goodwill gesture by Khrushchev and something of a diplomatic triumph for Kennedy.

Kennedy offered a goodwill gesture of his own, announcing he had ordered that U2 spy plane flights over the Soviet Union not be resumed. In that action he renewed an assurance given by President Eisenhower when the Paris summit conference blew up last May. Khrushchev had declared then his interest in knowing whether Eisenhower's successor would resume the flights.

Other Matters
On other matters dealing with foreign relations, Kennedy said: (1) There are no present plans for reopening diplomatic relations with Cuba, (2) There has been no Soviet reaction to the British proposal for reviving an international control commission for Laos and (3) U.S. contributions of time he talked about a new era in U.S.-Soviet affairs when the new administration took over in Washington. Thus from the beginning the RB47 incident and the U2 flight were linked in his view. The elements of a mutual understanding, whether openly stated or not, were clearly possible when Khrushchev met Saturday with Thompson.

Peace Offensive
But diplomats here, including U.S. officials, see Khrushchev's release of the fliers in a much broader context. They regard it as the first step in a carefully prepared Soviet strategy for a new "peace offensive" directed toward reopening U.S.-Soviet negotiations on the road to a new summit conference.

Measured by this purpose the release of the airmen was an opening gesture of good will and one with global propaganda value. Kennedy himself said the action "removes a serious obstacle to improvement of Soviet-American relations." And in Moscow the Foreign Office declared McKone and Olmstead were freed in "a sincere desire to usher in a new stage in relations between the Soviet government and the United States."

Greater Issues
The removal of barriers to negotiation only opens the way for tackling the greater issues. The best informed officials say that progress—or the lack of it—on these issues will determine whether or not there is to be a summit conference. But in the "atmosphere of civility," as Kennedy called it, they are somewhat more hopeful for the future.

The major immediate issues are Laos, Cuba and the Congo. Kennedy and Secretary of State Dean Rusk are watching closely to see how Khrushchev now handles Soviet policies toward those countries.

Kennedy Made 2 Slips in Debut

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy made two noticeable slips of the tongue in his first presidential news conference last night.

Asked about restoring diplomatic relations with Cuba, Kennedy said "... we have no plan at present to resume diplomatic relations with Soviet Russia—I mean Cuba."

Concerning the postponement of resuming atomic test ban talks at Geneva, he said: "In late March when we hope the tests will resume." The White House said later he meant to say "talks" instead of "tests."

ABC television announcer John Edwards made an even more noticeable slip of the tongue. As the news conference began, he told his audience:

British Solon Says
U. S., Russia Should Destroy Missiles

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — A member of the British Parliament suggests the United States and the Soviet Union should take a step toward disarmament by publicly destroying some of their intercontinental missiles.

If the Soviets won't agree, he says, the United States should go ahead anyway.

John Strachey, a Laborite, told a lecture audience at the California Institute of Technology Wednesday that liquid-fuel ICBMs are obsolete, are not much use as deterrents to war and "are a highly provocative menace to the other side."

"Would it not make a profound difference to the whole character of the world situation," he asked, "if the West and the East each publicly destroyed even 100 or 200 of this type of weapon?"

If the United States went ahead on its own, he said, "would it really be advantageous, or even possible, for Russia in the long run to abstain from following the example?"

Coyote No Longer Bothers Army Post

HUNTSVILLE, Ala. (AP)—The long battle between the Army and a coyote is at an end. The coyote is dead, never again to howl at the troops from his hillside lair.

Sgt. I. C. Buford Harrison, a game warden at Redstone Arsenal, had sought the coyote with gun and trap for 18 months but never got him.

The coyote was killed this week by a car as it crossed a road on the arsenal reservation.

President Kennedy Answers a question at Wednesday night's news conference. During the conference, the Chief Executive announced that two American fliers, held prisoner by Russia, have been released and are on their way home.

Integrated Recreation Passes First Big Test

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP)—Court ordered integration of Jacksonville recreational facilities has successfully passed its first big test.

An audience of 4,104—about half

Negro and half white persons—attended a concert by two Negro bands, one led by recording artist Fats Domino, in the Jacksonville Coliseum Wednesday night.

At previous events since integration went into effect Jan. 9 under a federal court order, only a scattering of Negroes attended.

Kennedy Sees Enlargement Of Rules Unit

House Postpones Showdown Vote Until Tuesday

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy, speaking as an "interested citizen," wants the House to enlarge its Rules Committee to break a bottleneck threatening his program.

The President told a dramatic news conference Wednesday night—his first—that he wouldn't for the world interfere in the constitutional process by which both houses of Congress fix their own rules.

"But it is no secret," he said, "that I would strongly believe that the members of the House should have an opportunity to vote themselves on the programs we will present."

Surprise Action
Kennedy's statement was made in the framework of surprise action by House Speaker Sam Rayburn, D-Tex. Rayburn postponed until next Tuesday a showdown vote previously scheduled for today on a proposal to cut Southern Democratic-Republican coalition power to pigeonhole in the committee domestic legislation of the kind Kennedy wants.

Rayburn backs a move to add two Democrats and a Republican to the committee and thus provide a majority to send the Kennedy program to a House vote.

Angered Republicans, not notified in advance of the postponement, charged that some Kennedy Cabinet officers were being enlisted

YOURS— A VOLUME AT-A-TIME!

Volumes No. 1 & 2 Are Now On Sale!

Here is an encyclopedia which can compare with any in the whole wide world! It comes to you in 25 magnificent volumes, beautifully printed and bound, lavishly illustrated. Each volume contains over a quarter of a million words — the size of THREE ordinary books. The complete set contains SEVEN MILLION WORDS in all, in nearly ten thousand pages, covering over THIRTY THOUSAND DIFFERENT SUBJECTS ranging over all human knowledge!

Here is a set of books that no American family can afford to be without — no, not a man in business, a woman at home, or a boy or girl in school or college. It is the one single set of books you truly need, the very foundation of learning, the prime basis for a home library.

What facts do you wish to check? What subject do you wish to have explained? What aspect of some field of learning has you puzzled or perplexed? You can find the answer quickly and easily in your Funk & Wagnalls Encyclopedia — ready at hand to aid you at every moment, year after year.

HISTORY-SCIENCE-INDUSTRY

NATURE-PEOPLE-PLACES

One of the World's Great Encyclopedias

Funk & Wagnalls is a name honored the world over in the field of reference books. And this is the newest and finest Funk & Wagnalls encyclopedia. Don't let the low price set on each volume fool you. These books would ordinarily cost much, much more. Only this enormous sale, as a cooperative effort of all the listed supermarkets, makes this nearly unbelievable offer possible.

How to build your set—One Volume at a time

Volume No. 1 of the set is put on sale at the supermarkets listed here during the first week of the offer. You can receive Volume No. 1 for only 29¢.

On Monday and Thursday of each week hereafter, another volume of the 25-volume set is put on sale. You can receive these succeeding volumes of the set at only 99¢ apiece as they become available.

Thus within a short time you can own all 25 magnificent volumes of the genuine FUNK & WAGNALLS STANDARD REFERENCE ENCYCLOPEDIA at a price so low as to be almost incredible!

The Opportunity of a Lifetime.

Here is the chance of a lifetime to own these world-famous books of reference — at an almost incredibly low price, and by a method of distribution easier than any ever before conceived!

You can go to your nearest supermarket TODAY and get Volume No. 1 of the set for only 29¢. Yes, it is yours for only 29¢! Then, each Monday and Thursday hereafter another volume goes on sale at only 99¢. Thus, within a short space of time you will have the entire 25-volume set at a price never before surpassed and never to be offered again!

You are welcome at any one of the supermarkets listed here merely to EXAMINE these handsome, expensive, leather-grained material, stamped in black and gold, printed on fine quality paper, illustrated with thousands of photographs, diagrams, drawings, finely reproduced throughout by the offset process, with full-color frontispieces and full-color maps of every country on the globe. All subjects are alphabetically arranged, easy to find, and set in new type that is clear and supremely readable.

County Officers Oppose New Bill

Police, Sheriffs Against Plan For Uniform Accident Reports

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
MADISON — County highway police and sheriffs Wednesday opened a determined attack on the key bill in a highway safety legislation package from the Wisconsin Council of Safety and the state motor vehicle department.

Reactions of members of the state assembly committee on highways indicated that the proposal to require the county officers to file with the state agency duplicate reports on local accident investigations may be in difficulties.

The president of the sheriffs' association denounced the state enforcement department as a "pressure group," and a spokesman for county traffic patrols complained that the proposed legislation unfairly exempts city and village police from the reporting requirements.

Reason for Bill
State officials frame their enforcement programs and safety campaigns now on the basis of statistics gathered in reports from persons involved in accidents. The highway commission also relies on such data in planning highway improvements. But the reports filed by individuals have been found to be slanted, incomplete, and otherwise unreliable. The motor vehicle department asked that the local officers be required to file copies of their own accident investigations to provide a more faithful picture of accident problems.

The influential safety council endorsed the proposition and made it a major legislative objective of the year. The highway interim committee of the legislature and the Legislative Council have endorsed the idea of uniform accident reporting.

Would Be Costly
D. R. Simon of Janesville, president of the sheriffs group, told the legislators that the department's reasons are "questionable" and that requirements would be enormously costly. His county of Rock would have to pay for at least 54 days of clerical hire to comply, he complained.

Cities and villages would be exempt from the bill, state officials explained, because they are already well-policed, because the state traffic patrol has no responsibility for enforcement in urban areas, and because the state highway department has little connection with urban road planning.

Forty three states now have the uniform reporting system as proposed in the bill, William

Redmond, from the safety council, said.

Dan Schuetz, state motor vehicle department, said there is constant agitation for more highway safety legislation — such as compulsory auto inspection and periodic reexamination of drivers — but that such measures cannot be judged without reliable statistical data on accident facts.

St. Regis Head Expects No Sales Upturn

Paper Industry Did Not Have Good Year In 1960, He Declares

William R. Adams, president of St. Regis Paper Co., said in Boston that he expects no early business upturn for either the paper industry or St. Regis.

He told the Boston Security Analysts Society, "The paper industry, and St. Regis along with it, did not have a good year in 1960 and I would be decidedly hard put to give you a prediction for any important improvement in early 1961."

J. E. Cowles, treasurer of St. Regis, estimated in the question and answer period following Adams' formal talk, that the company's 1960 earnings were between $1.90 and $2 a share. In 1959, earnings were $2.615, $1.9, or $3.01 a share, on sales of $474,393,135.

Cost-Price Squeeze
Paper makers are in a cost-price squeeze, a problem Adams said can be solved within the industry because there is no "imminent threat of competition from another industry or from overseas."

Meanwhile, the industry has "adequate capacity for the first time in more than 20 years." For the moment, "there are too many box plants" for the container segment of the industry's business.

Adams also said he expects no improvement in the multiwall paper bag business before February or March "when the spring fertilizer orders will begin to come in at the restored prices."

Price Upset
"The multiwall bag part of our industry, during the first six months of 1960, suffered from an emotional price upset which began in the summer of 1959. Prices were restored late in the second quarter but the anticipatory accumulation by users lasted longer than expected due to the summer slowdown in the general economy."

St. Regis also found 1960 "particularly difficult" for its lumber and plywood business. "This segment is a larger part of St. Regis, over all, than it is with most other paper companies and the actual red ink in this part of our business, a most unusual color on our profit and loss statements, has hurt us severely in 1960 results," he said.

Man Sent to State Hospital; Guilty of Indecent Exposure

David L. Tucker, 24, 456 11th St., Oshkosh, was sentenced to two years in Outagamie County jail by Municipal Judge Oscar J. Schmiede after Tucker pleaded guilty to two charges of indecent exposure.

The sentence was withheld on condition Tucker enter Winnebago State Hospital or the veterans hospital at Tomah for 30 days and monthly reports on Tucker are made for the next two years.

Tucker was arrested after he was identified as the driver of a car parked near Appleton schools Dec. 26 and Jan. 3. Tucker was charged with exposing himself to schoolgirls.

HOW STRAIGHT IS YOUR SPINE

Do you want to find out how straight your backbone is? Then take this test! Strip to the waist, and stand before a large mirror in your usual posture, and observe the following:

1. Does your head tilt to the right or left?
2. Is one shoulder lower than the other?
3. Is one shoulder drawn more forward than the other?
4. Is one hip higher than the other?
5. Does one hip swing further forward than the other?
6. Is your navel off center?

If your answer to any of the above questions is in the affirmative, you should definitely see a Chiropractor, because there are indications of different types of spinal conditions which may be the forerunner of serious symptoms.

Lawrence Says
'Live' Meetings With Press
Involve Risk

Up to President to Keep Conferences
Free of Politics

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — Off-the-cuff government through impromptu answers at press conferences, the chances of serious error. It with all its risks was on the whole a creditable performance.

of international. Eventually Kennedy may refuse to discuss any of the delicate been frequently questions, and his answers will condemned during the present. The press has maintained that there is a "right to know" as an undesirable practice. The press - content years a steady campaign against the Eisenhower administration was waged by sections of the press which seemed to some extent to be motivated by desires to get partisan advantage out of the refusal of an administration to give out at a press conference all the secrets of the government. It will be interesting to see how vigorous the opponents of the last administration now will be in demanding the "right to know" what Kennedy may refuse to divulge.

If the president of the United States has something important to say to the world, there's no reason why he shouldn't take time to formulate a carefully worded statement which has been previously submitted to his secretary of state and his other advisers, including perhaps key members of congress. But in a press conference, a president is questioned but the paraphrases that were and must answer on the spot, permitted varied so widely that Time and again the words instantly transmitted abroad have caused embarrassments. Other governments, especially our allies, wonder sometimes why they were not, as a matter of courtesy, told ahead of time about such pronouncements, so that they could offer their own suggestions and perhaps modifications. For America cannot play the game alone — it is dependent on the good will of the Western Allies.

Modify Diplomacy
There are signs that President Kennedy would like to modify some of the past practices in diplomacy. Thus, for instance, the word has already gone forth that the new administration doesn't like "summit" conferences but leaders in the Senate or House wants to talk to the Soviet government through the ambassadors at Moscow and Washington. It has also been intimated that the state department will not give out up to President Kennedy to make comments to the press on the exchange of views and that there will be no "leaks." The point has been made that only in this way can progress be made.

But the same rule might well apply to the answering of questions on foreign policy at a press conference. No president is capable of doing as good a job in stating his views off-the-cuff as he could if he had time to write out his answers and consult his advisers. After all, the stakes are too high for any risks to be taken.

On domestic matters, the case is different. A president can cause embarrassment to his official family if he states a view divergent from one of his cabinet officers, but the damage can as a rule be quickly reduced by later clarifications. The most significant change that President Kennedy has made thus far in relation to the press conferences is to permit them to be televised and broadcast instantly as they happen. Under the preceding administration, press conferences were held in the morning hours and tape recordings were made. When necessary, however, certain parts or sentences were eliminated from the transcripts for the press and from the tapes for later use by radio and TV. With the press conference going on the air as it takes place, there is, of course, no opportunity for any editing or revision. Kennedy showed in his first conference that he has confidence in his own ability to say exactly what he wants to say and that he is apparently not disturbed by the chances of serious error. It with all its risks was on the whole a creditable performance.

Form of Campaigning
Press conferences used to be conducted under a rule that the president could not be quoted, but the paraphrases that were and must answer on the spot, permitted varied so widely that Time and again the words instantly transmitted abroad have caused embarrassments. Other governments, especially our allies, wonder sometimes why they were not, as a matter of courtesy, told ahead of time about such pronouncements, so that they could offer their own suggestions and perhaps modifications. For America cannot play the game alone — it is dependent on the good will of the Western Allies.

Former Vice President Nixon is the titular leader of the Republican party and the natural choice to answer any attacks made in presidential press conferences. If he declines, then Republican leaders in the Senate or House would be logical for the task. But the American people would prefer a rest from politics and also the political campaigning, and it will be up to President Kennedy to make his press conferences informative and objective without using them as a forum for political debate in which the side attacked is not present to give its version of the argument.

Men May Change Their Minds

Testimony by various appointees to high positions in President Kennedy's administration brings out the fact that the words they say — and particularly the words they write — not only live after them but sometimes must be lived down. This has been apparent lately in the field of foreign affairs.

Last year Chester Bowles wrote for the magazine Foreign Affairs that we must face "the reality of the two Chinas" and that "we should encourage the neutralization of the offshore islands" of Quemoy and Matsui.

But when he appeared before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee last week, Mr. Bowles had changed, if not his mind, at least his approach. The two Chinas policy, he said, couldn't succeed because neither the Nationalist nor Peiping regimes would accept it. He still thought the islands were indefensible but didn't want to complicate things for President Kennedy and one of his major problems by taking a definite stand about them. And, besides, "we are going to defend Formosa whatever the cost, whatever the risk." Recognizing Red China or admitting her to the U.N. would not modify that nation's attitude, he conceded. We still would be enemy No. 1 to divert the Chinese people from their own misfortunes.

This change of approach is not restricted to Democrats. During the Truman years John Foster Dulles favored some sort of restriction upon executive agreements and protection of domestic issues from treaty clauses. But when he became secretary of state he found that such legislation would seriously hamper the workings of his department. Christian Herter also had some criticism of the handling of the offshore island problem back when it appeared he might be tapped for the nomination of vice-president.

Actually we do not think there is either a great change of heart or an effort to win senate confirmation in these differences. In part the switch stems from new information or a new way of looking at information which previously may be slanted in the direction a particular political party is aiming its brickbats. In part, too, there is the very human fact that it is far easier to find easy solutions to tremendous problems when one doesn't have the responsibility of putting the solutions into effect.

All of this goes to prove, probably, that a change in political control is healthy. Every few years it is "put up or shut up" and the reality keeps members of both parties on their toes.

A New Artillery Weapon

The army recently made public pictures of a new battlefield weapon which fires an atomic bomb so small and light that it can be lifted by one man. The projectile has very much the appearance of the ordinary small bomb. It is bulbous in shape and has four stabilizing fins at its base and is described as no larger than a wastebasket. The deadly projectile can be fired from a launcher attached to a jeep or, if need be, from a tripod type launcher which might be carried to a position at the front by two or three men.

This terrific weapon, known as the "Davy Crockett," has more fire power than anything ever used in the immediate area of a battlefield, according to former Sec. of the Army Brucker.

While the fire power of the "Davy Crockett" warhead is classified as secret it is understood to be something less than one kiloton. That is the equivalent of the energy released by 1,000 tons of TNT. This is to be compared with 20 kilotons for the first atomic bomb and more than 15 million tons for hydrogen explosives. Nevertheless, the one kiloton of the Davy Crockett is a tremendous force. It has a small effective radius so that men operating the launcher would be safe within two miles of the explosion. It is so light and compact that it can be moved readily from one position to the other as trouble spots in difficult places in the front line are reached.

In any case, where two opposing armies are anywhere near equal in their ordinary armaments the side with this bomb is certain to win for obviously no formation of men could possibly stand against the Davy Crockett nor could they defend themselves with any common form of trenches and caves.

'If Mothers Could See—'

March of Dimes fund drive organizers have reported some trouble recruiting mothers to make the door-to-door calls during the Mother's March on Jan. 31, the annual canvass which traditionally winds up the drive for National Foundation funds.

One of them asked, "What can we tell them so they realize the need for their help?" And then she told how Mrs. Carl Melchert, Appleton, mother of 11-year-old Carla, a polio victim, described the look on her girl's face when she returned home from Warm Springs and was able to take a few steps in front of her home.

"If mothers could see that," said this mother who knows what polio means, "they'd never say again they don't have time to walk around the block to collect money for the March of Dimes."

Emphasis Upon English

Practically every aspect of education has come under the scrutiny of educators and ordinary citizens in the last few years and now the spotlight is upon the teaching of English. Actually this subject should have been the first to be examined. Basic to understanding any subject or becoming proficient in any field is the ability to read, write and speak with clarity.

Evidence of the new concern with English has come from many sources. The University of Illinois sent out minimum requirements to all state secondary schools several years ago and announced that it would soon do away with its freshman remedial English course. The National Association of Secondary School Principals is preparing a report on suggestions for future English instruction probably to include a program from first grade through high school. The College Entrance Examination may include essay writing shortly.

But there have been signs of concern for a long time. Most colleges have had to institute the remedial course, the "bone-head English," to make up for the lack of grammar instruction on the lower levels. Businessmen have been complaining for years about the poor spelling among commercial students who apply for jobs. Youth leaders and parents have been appalled at the careless approach to grammar and spelling which most elementary school youngsters reveal. There has been a growing demand for themes and essays on all levels of schools and in almost all subjects.

The NASSP report will recommend that future English teachers spend less time in "professional education" and more on general subjects, including a foreign language, mathematics, social and natural sciences, and some 40 per cent of their credits in an English major with language, writing, speech, reading and literature all required. But other teachers, too, must come to realize that a sound English background is essential to their instruction, the report will stress. This is not only so that the language won't get bogged down between classes but because it is obvious that a well written or spoken series of instructions will be easier for a student to understand. Furthermore, a youngster who is taught how to express himself correctly can do a better job of explaining his knowledge in any subject.

The decline in English teaching has come from many sources. Teachers, as the NASSP report indicates, have not been well enough grounded in their subjects. Classes have been too large or too many so that written work is impossible to correct. The permissive theories of education have even gone so far as to accept poor grammar such as "he don't" or "it was me" as colloquialisms. Some colleges, in demanding more emphasis upon grammar and spelling, have lowered literature requirements.

Solutions must come on every level. The teachers must be better taught. There must be a renewed emphasis upon correct grammar and spelling in every subject, in the elementary schools. College bound youngsters should be so well grounded in these tools of their language that they can spend the last two years of high school on literature. Teachers must be enabled, either through small or few classes or through the assistance of well-educated people hired merely to correct themes, to require a considerable amount of written work at every grade level. There should be a continual emphasis upon good speech, not only through forensics, but in every subject and every class.

Greetings in Other Tongue Easy, Polite

From The Financial Post

Going after export business? In two hours you, too, can learn to make a seven-minute speech in a foreign language, even a difficult one like Japanese, without knowing ten words of the language.

This is precisely what W. E.

Williams, president of Procter and Gamble Co., of Canada, did recently, when, as president of Metropolitan Toronto Board of Trade, he headed a party of one hundred members on a business trip to the Far East.

Here's how William did it. He wrote his speech in English. A bilingual Japanese translated. Williams listened repeatedly, wrote it phonetically, red-penciled phrases and practised until he was "almost fluent."

Then he delighted his audience of Osaka businessmen.

His thoughtful gesture didn't go by unnoticed, by any means.

Neither will yours, if you take the trouble to learn to say only "how things are" in your customer's tongue before you set out.

English may be increasingly "the international language" of business and diplomacy.

But politeness, consideration for the feelings of others, is something in which North Americans too often rate very low marks.

Child Pedestrians Protected —Older Folks Get No Breaks

Editor's Note: The following two letters arrived on the Editor's desk the same day. Obviously the first was an expression of commendation for the efforts of crossing guards. However, the letters together indicate our concern for some pedestrians and unconcern for others. Therefore we have taken the liberty to emphasize a phase that probably was not in Mrs. Wise's mind when she wrote the first letter.

Editor, Post-Crescent:

For some time I've been wanting to pay tribute to a certain job and the holders thereof. They are employed by the city, that is to say, by all of us. Their pay cannot touch the intangibles of the task, as they stand, bundled to the ears, red-nosed and vigilant, halting a stream of traffic with a bright polka-dot of a sign, so that two or three, or even one small fry may cross. The aplomb and assurance of these youngsters is wonderful to see: the instantaneous and perfect trust that they are taken care of, when this paternally-garbed maternal figure steps forth with her symbol of authority.

"Stop dead in your tracks, you giant trucks, you business-hurrying grown-ups! This is our moment—"

We of the stopped traffic watch, while they grin at the school policeman as she says a few, evidently good-humored, affectionate words to them. They do not loiter, neither do they hurry. Why should they? For they are the world's promise, protected as should be for this small span of time at least, by a culture still too shamefully negligent of their welfare.

They see with their eyes and feel in their bones that law is for them — an experience we hope they will carry forward on the world level, when they become lawmakers.

The Other Story

Editor, Post-Crescent:

I am not very old but old enough to remember the saying, "Pedestrians First"

Working as a clerk in a downtown retail store I park my car every day in a parking lot south of Lawrence Street and walk the two blocks to the store. I have to cross Lawrence Street and find walking against the green light is a lot safer than walking with the green light and walk light as I also have to dart out of the way of automobiles making left turns onto an east-bound one-way street, namely Lawrence Street.

Khrushchev Wants Peace With U.S.; Fears Red Chinese

Editor, Post-Crescent:

Wisconsin residents are indeed lucky to have the state station, both AM and FM. As a new resident here with only an AM receiver I find WHA invaluable for daytime listening particularly such offerings as "Religion and the cold war" mentioned by Mrs. Sommers, and in the same vein, the New Year's day lecture by Harrison E. Salisbury on the matter of China and Russia today.

It may be that Dr. Bennetts picture of Russia is too rosy but it is agreed among present day authorities on Russia that the reign of terror quickly came to an end with the death of Stalin and rise of Khrushchev. One factor we can find in Khrushchev's favor is his refusal to use the police to attain personal power. I would suggest a recent contributor update her reading with "To Moscow and Beyond" by Harrison E. Salisbury. The author spent the war years as a correspondent in Russia, and spent much of the succeeding 15 years as a resident correspondent there. He writes vividly of the ghastly terror of the Stalin years and of the vast changes since Khrushchev has come into power, especially the lack of fear of the police in present times.

Russia's greatest worry is the encroachment of China into her eastern territories, especially Mongolia. This brings me to another piece of suggested reading "The Yellow Wind" by Wm. Stevenson. China is indeed a dangerous enemy with a technique so different from that of Russia. Mao Tse-tung uses psychology in his waiting game also and I believe we all have at times forgotten about the walking person.

Let's remember to give the pedestrian a break especially during the rush hours when it's hard to cross certain streets.

Looking Backward

W. H. Seward Secretary of State

100 YEARS AGO

Quoted from the Appleton Motor for the week of Jan. 24, 1861.

Hon. William H. Seward has been tendered and has accepted the position of Secretary of State in Mr. Lincoln's cabinet. Mr. Seward's speech attracted the largest audience ever assembled within the walls of the Senate. Two hours before the time of meeting it was packed in every part, and all the avenues, lobbies and corridors were jammed as on inauguration day.

Gen. Dix, who has just been appointed Secretary of the Treasury, was a number of years ago connected with the regular army of the United States as a captain. While serving in that capacity, Major Anderson was his first lieutenant. A large number of Republican members from the New England and Middle States have united in a recommendation of Mr. Colfax of Indiana for the office of Postmaster General.

Gov. LaFollette was understood to be preparing a definite answer to the League of Wisconsin Municipalities on its request for a special session of the legislature to deal with the relief problem.

Nelson's Proposals Reveal Nothing New

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON — Gov. Nelson's variegated program message to the state legislature was described as a "smorgasbord" by Lt. Gov. Warren P. Knowles. The ranking Republican officeholder at the statehouse very likely intended to be derogatory about the far-ranging series of proposals of the top Democrat. But it was a reasonably apt description, nevertheless.

Correspondents don't remember when a governor put before the legislature such a long and detailed string of proposals, major and minor, significant and merely trivial, as that which came from the governor last week.

A part of the explanation, doubtless, is in the problem of devising that a politician faces in his second term in the glass house that is the executive office. The Nelson speech was reminiscent in its general form of the second term message of Walter J. Kohler, eight years ago, when he also faced the problem of appearing inventive and original after having used up most of his ideas and his most urgent proposals in his first term. It is not easy for a politician who has consciously put his best foot forward in his first term to appear to have anything new or striking to offer in his second.

EXPLANATION

With that conceded, there are some very strange propositions in the Nelson requests to the lawmakers.

One friendly critic has suggested that the governor knew that he had very little chance of getting what he wanted from a wary and skeptical legislative branch, knew that most of his proposals would be knocked down in any event, and therefore threw into his message all the old chestnuts that could be collected in the hope of making an impression upon a variety of pressure groups that singly don't amount to much.

That may have come pretty close to the mark. For the message contained some matters that would not have been approved and enacted into law even if he had a friendly Democratic legislature with which to deal. The idea of nonpartisan election of county officers is an example. This violates all the convictions about practical politics, of both political parties. The proposal has been before the legislature repeatedly and never has been seriously considered by the party that is in power—and they have had turns at it during the last quarter of a century. Yet for many persons a step or two removed from the political party system, this sounds like a fair idea. The governor may have thought he could make an impression upon those, without doing any violence to the practical political values of the situation, since it isn't likely to be approved anyway.

There is some surprise, therefore, that he offered the legislature only one new and major reorganization plan for this term, and that he chose the highway commission as the subject — or the victim — as the highway administration may view it.

There are theories of public administration involved here, and it may or may not be that the governor's plan for a single director with an advisory commission is better than a three-man commission for the management of the state highway program. This is not the place to discuss the theories. As a practical matter, however, the proposition has startled that considerable body of politicians concerned with public road affairs. There has been no build-up for such a reform, if reform it is. There is no visible public demand for it. Thus the prospects for this major item of his new program must be counted as dim, indeed.

Russia does many things which seem pointless or deliberately aggravating to us but Khrushchev is genuinely trying to raise the living standards of his people and for this he needs peace. He is aware the day may come when Russia and the U.S. will again be allied, but as a counterbalance to the might of China.

Although the average Russian's way of life holds no charms for us, we need to remember that most Russians "never had it so good." Only a very brief study of the history of Russia is needed for verification.

If we the people make a point of being better informed and less blindly prejudiced we can assist our government in its efforts to establish world peace.

N.J.C.T.

MAJOR ISSUE

During his campaign last year the governor indicated repeatedly that the several governmental reorganization bills he put through in his first term were merely the foundation upon which he intended to build further remodeling of the state administrative machinery.

There is some surprise, therefore, that he offered the legislature only one new and major reorganization plan for this term, and that he chose the highway commission as the subject — or the victim — as the highway administration may view it.

There are theories of public administration involved here, and it may or may not be that the governor's plan for a single director with an advisory commission is better than a three-man commission for the management of the state highway program. This is not the place to discuss the theories. As a practical matter, however, the proposition has startled that considerable body of politicians concerned with public road affairs. There has been no build-up for such a reform, if reform it is. There is no visible public demand for it. Thus the prospects for this major item of his new program must be counted as dim, indeed.

High Costs of Conservation Must be Paid

From The Wyoming State Tribune

It is said that at the time of Columbus, it would have been possible for a squirrel to travel from the Atlantic to the Mississippi without ever touching ground. Today, those interested in preservation of our forest and wildlife resources warn against the increasing encroachment of urbanization.

Some individual states are beginning to listen. The cost is high, but land prices will never be lower. And the expense is nothing compared to the cost to the human spirit if we allow America the beautiful to become the land of pavements.

Exclusive Appeal

HOKKAIDO, Japan (AP) — When the Rev. Joseph C. Luckey, a Maryknoll missionary from Cincinnati, Ohio, had trouble getting Japanese men to a study class on Christianity, he put up a new kind of sign, and attendance shot up. The sign said: "For Men Only."

It Isn't Cold Here; Charlie Notes Real Chilling Experience

BY CHARLES HOUSE
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Is it cold enough for you? That question should be sufficient to earn its asker a quick punch in the snout, but, of course, a gentler answer could be given some-thing like this:

"Cold is an arbitrary expression because there is no determinable boundaries between heat and cold, but as a general thing when the atmosphere is at a lower temperature than my skin it absorbs heat from it and therefore I would have to say, 'Yes, it is cold enough.'"

But it isn't really cold enough for you, if you want to have the facts. You can stand a great deal more cold than you have been getting.

The coldest spot on earth is in the Taiga country of northeast Siberia, and people live there in reasonable comfort. That section of the world is located about 1,400 miles from the north pole. Although temperatures are not officially recorded there, a nearby city does chart the weather.

90 Degrees Below

This is the city of Verkhoyansk. The coldest natural temperature ever recorded was achieved there. It reached 90 degrees Fahrenheit—below zero.

Though I have never been to Verkhoyansk and have no wish to go there, I have experienced great cold. I would like to tell you about it:

A few years ago, on a winter-time trip into Alaska, I found one region on the Alaska highway where the temperature was 72 degrees below zero. It was very, very cold except that I could not "feel" the cold in the ordinary sense.

The air was dark, smoky, with what they call "ice fog" and it was very difficult to see more than 20 or 30 yards ahead.

Walk in that weather and your nostrils tickle and pinch themselves together and your breath makes tiny crackling sounds. The snow or ice underfoot squeals in high-pitched tones and is not slippery at all. Instead, your shoes tend to cling to it—not tenaciously, of course, but you are aware of the sticking with every step.

Walk Very Slowly

People who live in such cold regions seldom walk abroad when the temperature is down that low. When they do, however, they walk and they walk very, very slowly. In our country when the weather plummets to low degrees, it is our way to run from one was severely frostbitten—white and hardening.

In such extreme cold weather, there is another danger. The cold brings upon one a kind of a lethargy; one tires quickly and there seems to be a need for sleep. North woodsmen know this feeling and they fight it very hard because, once one goes to sleep in that extreme cold, the chances are good that wakefulness will never come again.

Another unusual thing occurs among trees. As you walk in such intense cold, you hear dozens of noises like pistol shots, sharp and ringing. This sound comes from the trees. The cold apparently swells the sap of the trees and the fibers of the wood crack and split with sharp sounds. These "frostracks" are known by every northern Wisconsin woodsman, and, of course, by everyone who lives in extremely cold wooded areas.

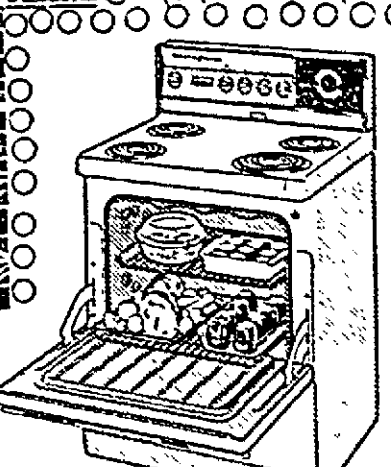

During cold spells at Nome, Alaska, trucks never turn off the ignition of their vehicles, but let the engines run throughout the winter. In such cold, it is very difficult to restart an engine.

Automobiles which have been inactive over night are almost impossible to start, and the rubber on the tires freezes into a hard, brittle material—and they stay flat on the bottom even after driving as much as a mile. One gets the "bump-bump" as he rides in a car with the tires frozen and the wheel reaches the flat part.

And, friends, that's cold—if anybody asks you.

Shots From Trees

In Criss-Cross Checkerboard Game Men are Not Captured

BY CAPPY DICK
Criss-Cross is a game two, three or four may play. You make the outfit from scraps of cardboard. A piece 10 inches square will do for the game board. With ruler and pencil divide it into 100 one-inch squares. Then erase the four squares at each corner. If you wish, these squares may be cut from the cardboard as shown in Figure 1. Color the alternate squares with crayons. For men use buttons of four different colors -- six to each set. If you can't find that many suitable buttons around the house use round pieces of colored card-board. Each player chooses a color and places his six men in the six squares at his side of the board. The object of the game is for each player to try, by moving and jumping, to land all his men in the six squares at the opposite edge. The first player to do so wins the game.

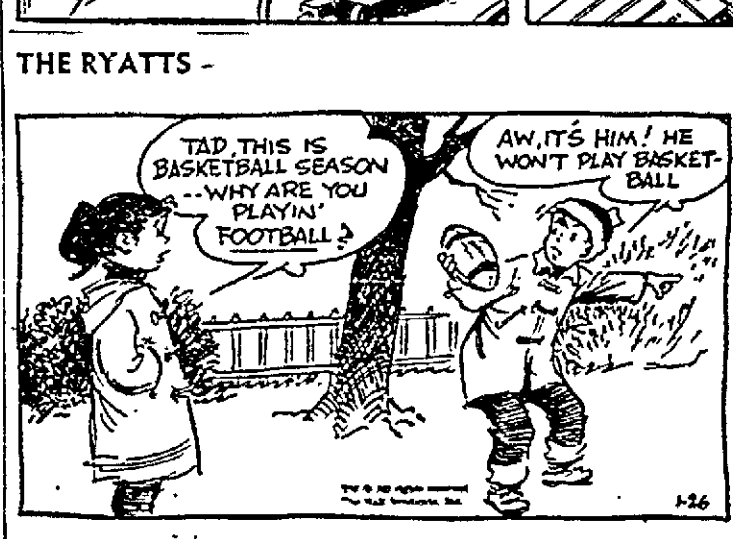

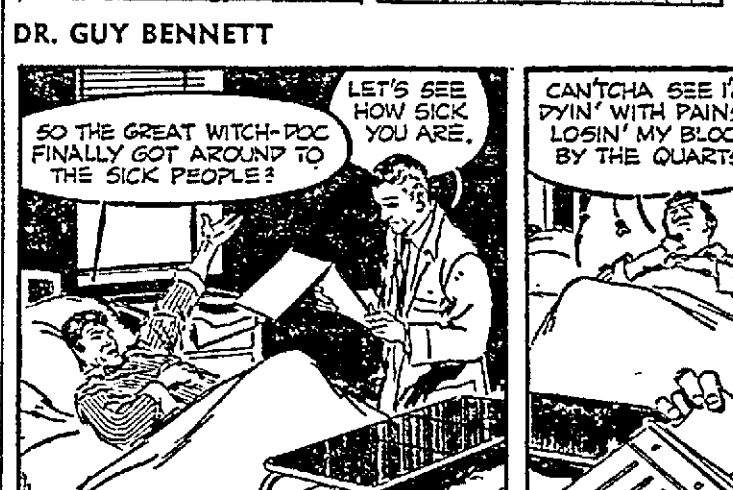

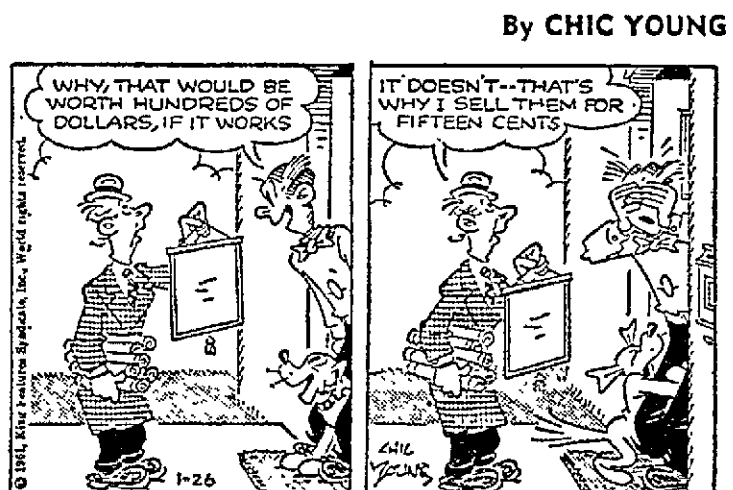

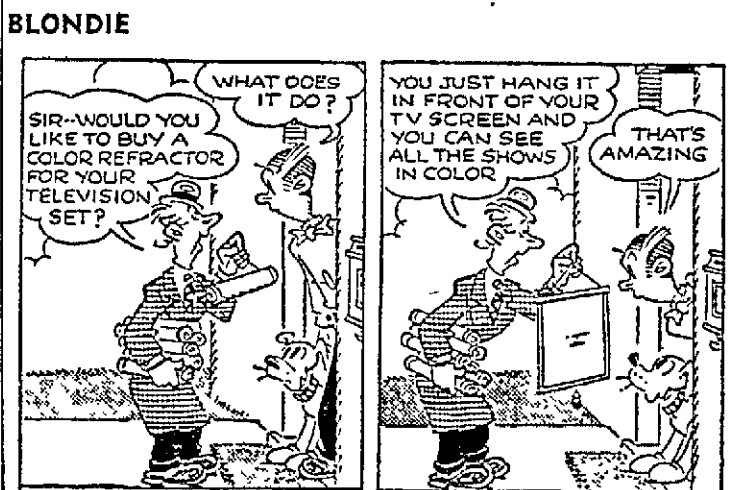

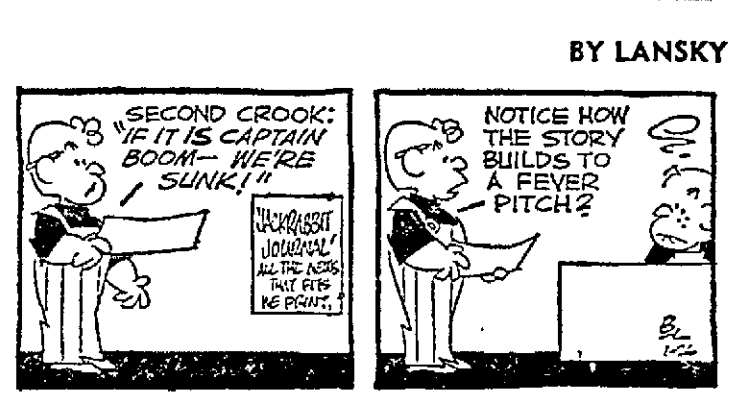

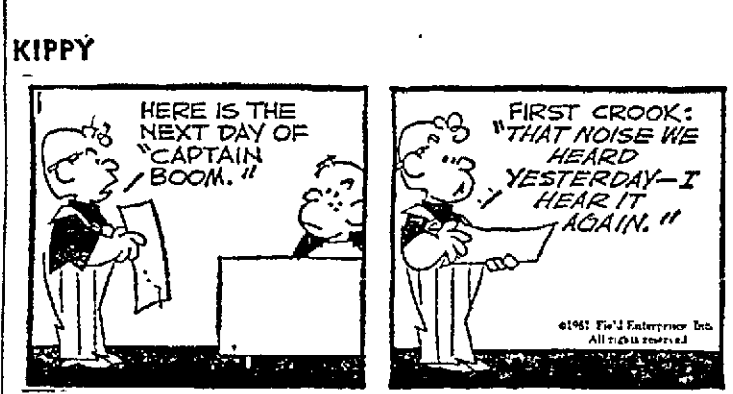

The players take turns (Figure 2). During each turn a player may move only one man and only one space, but he can move the man

Full Live Theater Menu in Prospect

Appleton, Milwaukee, DePere Figure in Varied Fare of Stage Entertainments

BY JINGO

Theater-goers will have a full menu of attractions for the next few days, from DePere to Milwaukee; but with Appleton affording the most varied diet.

On consecutive weekends the Fox Cities area theater-goers will be feasting on live entertainment in the form of a road company of a Broadway show and the world premiere of a legitimate play by a Fox Cities playwright.

If these attractions are not enough for the more incorrigible stage fans, the superhighways are opened to an opening with special overtones in Milwaukee on Tuesday.

As the Fox Cities' home brewed entertainment opens its second weekend, DePere will be the site of the opening of a collegian version of a Broadway musical that is becoming a standard.

With that agenda and the pleasant memories of the National Ballet of Canada so fresh, who can deny "Happy Days Are Here Again!"

There's a touch of sadness to the attraction Sunday evening at Appleton High School. It is the last offering of the Neenah Rotary Club's Famous Star series this season. But this will be the only sad note. The show, "Once Upon A Mattress," stars Imogene Cocoa and Edward Everett Horton, an iron-bound bond of plenty of laughs. The show has had the most durable history of any on the boards today. It started off-Broadway, invaded Shubert Alley and stayed to attract enough love and attention to create a demand on the road. To give the devil his due it must be said the exposure given the show's stars by Jack Paar while the legend was still off-Broadway was the turning point of the show's fortunes. Every cloud has a silver lining, you see.

The Fox Cities talent extravaganza opening Feb. 4 for a run on Feb. 5, 10 and 11 at Stansbury Auditorium on the Lawrence campus is the Altie Theater production of James Auer's "City of Light." The Menasha playwright whose responsibility is the news content of the state's fourth morning newspaper is niggardly about plot information of his brain child, but promises an entertaining evening.

The Jan. 31 opening in Milwaukee is the Fred Miller Theater production of "Marriage-Go-Round" starring Academy Award Winner Gloria Grahame, who is wed to Milwaukee's gift to comedy writing, Cy Howard.

The DePere opening Feb. 10 will be the St. Norbert College production of "Guys and Dolls," staged by the Rev. Joseph Dorff, O. Praem., directed by Dudley Birdier and produced by Norbert Ecker. The Runyonesque musical will run until Feb. 13.

Girl Sent to Prison For Bombing Scare

ROME, N. Y. (AP) — A 17-year-old girl today began serving a prison sentence not to exceed three years for setting off a bomb scare at a junior high school. Judge Abraham H. Baker of city court sentenced June Agnes Witchley yesterday to the Western Reformatory for Women at Alcatraz. She was one of two girls who admitted phoning a bomb threat to Laurel Junior High School Dec. 14. The other girl, 15, was turned over to children's court.

JFK's News Conference TV Milestone

Ron Ely Makes Quiet Debut on
'The Aquanauts'

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
NEW YORK (AP) — Communications history was made Wednesday night as President Kennedy conducted the first presidential news conference before live television cameras.

The President took on all questions posed by a large room full of reporters for more than 30 minutes. It was more than fascinating viewing; it was an important forward step in public enlightenment. We should be grateful to the President. Surely it is no easy task to face several hundred reporters and live TV cameras and be ready with the best answer to any question thrown out.

"The Aquanauts," CBS' undersea adventure series, demonstrated Wednesday night the easiest, quickest way to dispatch one hero and take on a new one. Ron Ely made his debut in place of Keith Larsen as one of the two skin-diving principals.

As the two walked from the ocean, co-star Jeremy Slate casually mentioned that his former buddy had been suddenly called back into the Navy for two years' duty.

"I just got out," replied the replacement. And away they went.

This week's interlude on NBC's Barbara Stanwyck Show, "Dear Charlie," was an ironic and light-hearted little tale of homicide worthy of a spot in the Hitchcock lineup — except that Hitchcock would never have allowed Milton Berle to overact and ham up the con man part. ABC's second "Close-up" is the story of test pilot Scott Crossfield and the new X-15, a manned rocket. It will be shown Feb. 6.

Marital notes from TV land: Zsa Zsa Gabor will play Ernest Borgnine's spouse in the Feb. 12 GE Theater drama, "The Legend That Walks Like a Man," while Mamie Van Doren will play Jack Benny's wife on the comedian's program the same day.

Just when international film festivals are going out of style, along comes a bunch of international TV festivals. Monte Carlo is hosting one which seems to be causing very little stir, and the U.S. Academy of TV Arts and Sciences is holding another next November. Now comes word of still a third to be held in Switzerland.

'Pied Piper' Popular At Miller Theater

Because of sell-out houses, the second of a series of plays written and produced for children at Milwaukee's Fred Miller Theater will be given for an additional four Sundays through March 12. "The Pied Piper of Hamelin," featuring the Pick A Pack Players, was scheduled to close Feb. 12. This adult group under the direction of Miss Edith Mahler will present the play at 2 p.m. every Sunday afternoon.

The theater inaugurated its Sunday children's performances last October with their first play, "Puss in Boots," playing for eight performances.

Unique Program

Singer-Actress Gives Review of 'Fiorello'

BY LILLIAN MACKESY
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Onstage for more than an hour last night at Appleton High School, vivacious Julie Harand of Chicago narrated and sang a kaleidoscopic review of the Broadway hit, "Fiorello."

The talented woman, billed as a musical dramatist, presented her energetic one-woman show with able assistance of pianist Martin Rubenstein, also of Chicago. It was an ambitious assignment that showed excellent and unique organization of material as well as dramatic and singing abilities.

Miss Harand presented about eight episodes from the musical that's based on the early adult life of New York's LaGuardia. The script was her own with a line here and there direct from the musical. The 14 or 15 songs she sang were done in the various roles of the proper characters.

The continuity of Miss Harand's segmented program was held together in the form of narration as the story told by Marie Fischer, LaGuardia's secretary in real life and in the musical. Through this central character Miss Harand developed the highlights of the plot of "Fiorello," playing the secretary one moment, someone else the next. Despite the rapid character change, she was easy to follow. Her portrayals were more of subtle suggestion than fact. Her stage properties consisted of two lone chairs.

She became the office worker who sang "On the Side of the Angels." Dora the picketing garment worker whose Brooklynness proclaimed musically, "I Don't Want to Go to Jail."

Miss Harand portrayed the men in New York's 14th district party headquarters where "politics mixes with poker." With her arms behind her back and a bit hunched over she demonstrated five-foot LaGuardia in a campaign stride, giving instructions to the lady pickets and later lustily singing "The Name's LaGuardia." Thus it went from one vignette to the next without a stop.

Program Highlights
One of the comedy highlights was Miss Harand's singing of the rousing "Live and Let Live" in her dramatization of the Roaring 20's. She also showed ingenuity as a quick change artist as she talked during this scene. She transformed Miss Fischer's primed 1917 costume into a short-skirted flapper dress by a surprise shedding of the jacket and bottom tier of the long dress she was wearing. She deftly added a wide sash at the costume's low waistline point.

For beauty, her singing of "When Did I Fall in Love" as Fiorello's first wife was the most appealing in the program. But audience reaction indicated it also enjoyed the last scene when the lovelorn secretary gets her man. Here Miss Harand sang Miss Fischer's song about how she's "going to marry the very next man."

The program was sponsored by the Appleton Education Association. Ben Foltz was program chairman.

Paul Lukas Comes Back To Hollywood

Oscar Winner in First Movie Since 1954; Lives Abroad

BY BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Paul Lukas is again working in Hollywood after a lengthy absence, but his Oscar didn't make the trip. It stayed home in Tangier.

Tangier? Yes, that's right. The Moroccan port now is home base for the veteran actor, who has become a bit of a wanderer, not to mention a philosopher. He has returned to these shores to play in "Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse," his first film here since "20,000 Leagues Under the Sea" in 1954.

Since the Disney film, he has been all over. To the Broadway stage for a hit "Call Me Mad" and a miss "Flight to Egypt." To South America. To Egypt.

Europe and return by slow freight.

Spain, Tangier
Lately he has been living on the sunny coast of Spain, more recently in Tangier. Why that fabled city?

"Because I have been there many times in recent years and have many friends," he explained. "Because they have the most beautiful beach in the world, so smooth that they hold soccer games on it. Because I am, unfortunately, not a very rich man, and the living is cheap there."

"But I do not think I will stay after a longer. Tangier has changed. Since it is no longer a free port, it does not have the attraction for tourists, and the city is dwindling. I will probably go back to my villa in Spain."

Has Wanderlust
Whence came this wanderlust? It happened after his divorce a few years ago.

"After all, what is there for me?" he asked. "All I need is have food to eat, books to read, friends to enjoy and new places to see. This business of keeping stage for a hit 'Call Me Mad' and a miss 'Flight to Egypt' is too much for me."

Miss Carla Melchert, 1109 N. Oneida St., is shown with the doll which arrived recently from Nice, France. The doll was made in Paris and purchased by sailors aboard the U.S.S. Springfield, fleet flagship of the Sixth fleet stationed in the Mediterranean. The men read the story in the Post-Crescent of Carla's fight to recover from polio and have promised to send mementoes of each port at which they stop.

Impressed by Courage

Sailors Send Doll to Polio-Stricken Girl

Don't let anyone tell you sailors are a hard-hearted crew with nothing on their minds but a good time in port. Carla Melchert knows that's not so.

Carla is the 11-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Melchert, 1109 N. Oneida St., who was stricken by polio in 1955 and told she would never walk again. The story of how determination and good care negated this gloomy prophesy appeared in the Dec. 2 Post-Crescent.

In some way — no one knows exactly how at this point — Carla's story was read by sailors of the Fourth Division of the U.S.S. Springfield, flagship of the Sixth Fleet, stationed at Ville, France. One of them, Terry Jackson, wrote Carla that he and his friends had read her story and were impressed by her courage and struggle to walk again.

Club Which Barred Jew Says Members Free to Bring 'Any Guests'

SCARSDALE, N.Y. (AP)—Leaders of the Scarsdale Golf Club — where a youth was barred from a Christmas dance on the ground that he was Jewish — have announced its members are free to bring any guests they choose. Charles S. McAllister, president of the club, and the board of governors Monday issued a letter of "clarification for future guidance." The latter said in part: "Recent events have made it apparent... that there exists considerable confusion with respect to the guest privileges of club members. This has led to different interpretations at different times by different members. It should be clearly understood that any member of this club may use the facilities of the club to entertain guests and friends of his choosing."

School Societies to Lose Standing if Segregated

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — The Oregon Board of Higher Education said Tuesday that after Jan. 1, 1963, it will withdraw recognition from any fraternity or sorority required by its national charter to practice racial or religious discrimination. The board, which supervises operation of the six state-owned colleges, said only a few fraternities and sororities still have restrictions against minority groups.

Masterful

There are excellent reasons why the 1961 Cadillac so completely dominates the highways of America. The finest Cadillac in a long and distinguished history, it is a motor car which reflects an authority unchallenged by any rival. Stately... majestic... masterful... these are words which convey some small measure of the manner in which it takes command of the road and wins the unstinting acclaim of those who drive or ride in it. Your Cadillac dealer cordially invites you to enjoy a memorable demonstration drive at your earliest convenience.

Town's Water Pressure Drops as Pipe Freezes

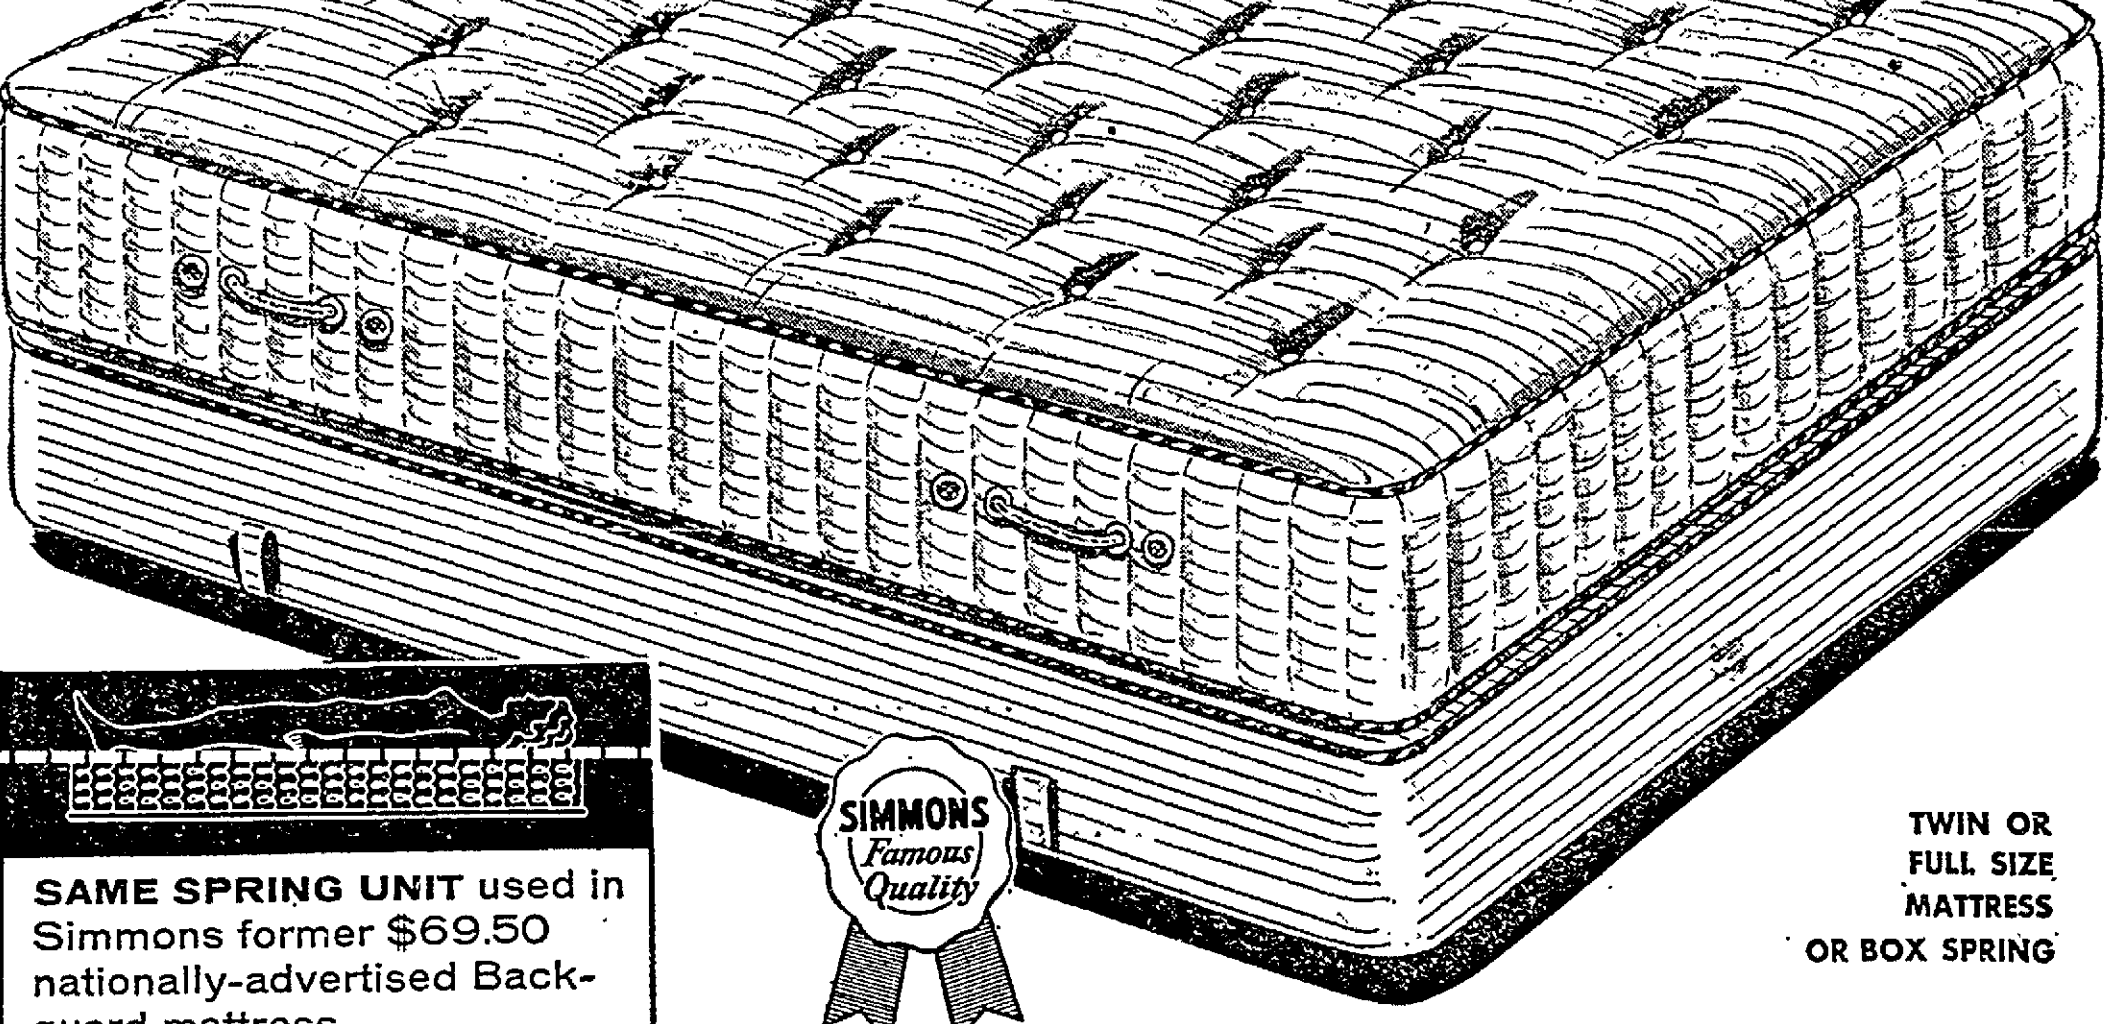

ALMA CENTER (AP)—Water pressure throughout this small community of about 500 persons dropped to a trickle after the main pipe of supply tower froze in near zero temperature. Officials said the pipe froze after a fire destroyed insulation around it. A pump ordinarily used to fill the tower tank was used to boost pressure.

Send Her Dolls

As a reward for her efforts, he stated, he and the others had decided to send her a doll from each of the Mediterranean ports they visited. She would, he said, receive dolls from France, Rome, Turkey, Greece, Malta, Sicily, and other places. He wished her a merry Christmas and asked her to write. Carla also received cards from two others on the ship, Ted Cudworth and Ray Hamblin. These also expressed personal messages of encouragement and hopes for a happy 1961.

Shortly after the arrival of the letter and cards, Carla received by air mail from Nice, France, the first doll. It was made in Paris and is, as Mrs. Melchert says, "not a doll with." Beautifully made and dressed, the doll stands about 13 inches tall. Her clothing is hand made, petticoats are of lace and her apron is hand painted. Her outfit is complete with bracelets and earrings. Carla has replied to Seaman Jackson's letter, and asked for information about himself and his friends and how he heard of her. In the meantime, if the young men follow their plan, the mailman will be a most welcome caller at Carla's home.

Honor State's Contribution In Civil War

Ceremonies Mark Opening Activities Of Memorial Group

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
MADISON — Gov. Gaylord Nelson and the Wisconsin state legislature today joined in tribute to the contributions of Wisconsin to the Civil War a century ago, when a higher proportion of the men of this state served the national colors than in any other conflict in which the Wisconsin population ever participated.

The governor addressed a joint session of the state legislature, held to commemorate the nation's bloody battles of a hundred years ago. The ceremonies marked the start of the activities of the Wisconsin Civil War Memorial Commission.

One of Four
Nelson recalled that when Wisconsin sent 52 infantry regiments, 13 cavalry regiments and a special company of sharpshooters into the Union armies, the contribution represented one out of four of the male residents of the state. The Wisconsin population in 1860 was 800,000. The state sent 91,379 men into Civil War service.

Noting that he and many of the members of the legislature served in later wars, Nelson went on: "But none were more vital to the preservation of our democratic institutions than that tragic conflict between fellow Americans." The war also gave to world history Abraham Lincoln, "an incomparable man of the people," the governor said.

The governor spoke as the Centennial commission planned later today a special ceremony of tribute to the Iron Brigade of Civil War fame, a Wisconsin unit of the federal army which had a greater casualty rate than any other in the Civil war, on either side.

Own Grandfather
Nelson also recalled that his own maternal grandfather as a boy of 16 enlisted in the Union army, was captured in Georgia late in the conflict as a member of Gen. Sherman's invasion army and spent seven weeks at a notorious Confederate prison at Andersonville before he was released "more dead than alive." Sheldon E. Bradt enlisted from Waukegan county and later farmed there. He was the father of Gov. Nelson's mother.

The governor said the emotional scars of the great American conflict have been largely eliminated as "we are maturing as a nation and the regional barriers between the north and the south grow less imposing."

There's a thief in Appleton who doesn't like money.

A College Avenue businesswoman forgot her handbag after having lunch in a restaurant the other day and when she returned for it, it was gone. Later, one of her customers found her bluff — with the money intact — where it had been discarded on the sidewalk. But the handbag, with a new pair of gloves and other items, still is missing.

Comedian Mel Blanc Reported Improving

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Comedian Mel Blanc, seriously injured in a head-on auto collision Tuesday night, is showing definite improvement although he remains in critical condition.

A spokesman at the UCLA Medical Center said Blanc was not fully conscious but his heartbeat was strong and he was breathing regularly. Wednesday morning, the spokesman said, doctors "did not give him a chance."

Blanc, 52, the voice of such cartoon characters as Bugs Bunny and Porky Pig, suffered head injuries and fractures of both legs and the pelvis when his sports car collided with another auto on Sunset Boulevard near the UCLA campus. The other driver was not seriously hurt.

Thomson Sees Reversal By Kennedy

No Relation Between Campaign Promises, Inaugural Plea

BY RICHARD P. POWERS
WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Vernon W. Thomson, R-Wis., sees a contradiction between the inaugural address of President Kennedy and the campaign promises of John F. Kennedy.

The first-term congressman, getting squared away for the two-year term to which he was elected Nov. 8, described Kennedy's inaugural speech as a shock to many liberal Democrats.

"There was no relationship between the campaign promises of Mr. Kennedy and the plea in his inaugural speech asking Americans to do what they can for the government and not what the government can do for them," Thomson said.

Reversal of Philosophy
"It was the most complete reversal of philosophy to take place within the period of a few weeks that has ever been presented."

"The test now will be if President Kennedy will live up to the lofty thoughts contained in his inaugural address or whether there will be political expedience in the form of his legislative requests."

Thomson, a native of Richland Center, Wis., labels himself as a middle-of-the-road conservative.

He is no novice to politics. Beginning in 1935, he served eight consecutive terms in the Wisconsin Legislature and was elected speaker of the assembly in 1939. He was elected state attorney general in 1950 and reelected in 1952. He was elected governor in 1956, defeating Democrat William Proxmire, who now is a senator. Thomson lost to Democrat Gaylord Nelson in a try for a second term in 1958.

GOP Organization
Thomson is one of 40 new Republican members of the House who plan to set up a permanent organization. He is a member of a 7-man committee drafting plans for the organization.

Thomson said the House Democratic leadership has shown "ruthless partisanship in the organization practices so far demonstrated."

"The attitude of the Democratic leadership is now apparent in the move to pack the rules committee," Thomson said. "I see it as an effort to jam the Kennedy program through."

"There were many states which Kennedy lost, where his program and philosophy were rejected, such as Wisconsin. I see no reason or justification for the supporting the packing of the rules committee to implement a program rejected by the electors in those areas."

Thomson said he would not vote against proposals of the new administration on a blind basis of general opposition. He believes that in some cases Congress may modify Kennedy proposals so that he can vote for them.

Menominees File To Incorporate

MADISON (AP)—Menominee Enterprises Inc. filed incorporation papers with the secretary of state's office Monday, another step in bringing to an end federal supervision over the Indians on the reservation.

The incorporation step provides a system for continued tribal control over assets, mostly forest land, the U.S. government will turn over to the Menominees.

Federal supervision over the tribe is scheduled to end April 30.

Menominee Enterprises wants to issue 330,000 shares of common stock at $1 par value per share, with all stock to go to present members of the tribe.

Incorporators were listed as

Construction on Tallest Chicago Building Scheduled

CHICAGO (AP)—Construction of a multi-million-dollar skyscraper office building—a third taller than Chicago's highest building now—will begin within two years, say it planners.

The skyscraper, more than 60 stories tall, would be the center of an 18-acre development to rise over the tracks of the Illinois Central Railroad on the lake front. The proposed project also would include a hotel of at least 2,000 rooms, a retail shopping center and apartment buildings.

Plans for the development—to be known as Illinois Center—were announced Tuesday by Wayne A.
Johnston, Illinois Central president, and Tom B. Boston of Dallas, head of a group of Chicago and Texas investors who have formed the Illinois Center Corp.
to carry out the project.

Boston said construction costs would exceed $150 million. Cost of air rights, currently optioned by the railroad to the corporation, was set at about $30 million.

The development will be bounded by the 41-story Prudential Building, Lake Shore Drive, Randolph Street and South Water Street, a six-block area.

U.S. Will Not Try to Board Fugitive Ship

allies in the hunt after the cruise ship was taken over in the Caribbean early Sunday morning by an armed band who sneaked aboard in Venezuela and Curacao disguised as passengers.

But the United States, though sending warships and planes to keep watch on the ship, backed away from earlier statements by naval spokesmen that the Santa Maria would be boarded and taken in U.S. charge and her captors treated as pirates.

Won't Board Ship

President Kennedy told a Washington news conference Wednesday night that the U.S. Navy "has not been given instructions to conduct boarding operations," but only to accompany the liner.

"There are Americans involved and their lives are involved," he said, adding that the United States was also concerned because the Santa Maria belonged to a friendly nation.

Cmdr. Charles Rainey, spokesman at the Navy search headquarters in San Juan, said the Navy's "prime consideration now is the safety and welfare of the crew and passengers." As to future action, search officials would only say that they awaited orders from a higher level. The idea appeared to be to get a Navy surface ship in range of the liner, then get orders from Washington depending on the situation.

Watching Liner

After Krauss, flying a P2V Neptune, located the Santa Maria, the Navy made arrangements to keep the fugitive ship under constant surveillance. A Brazil-based, long range Constellation was sent out with orders to "track and report position" of the liner.

The U.S. destroyers Damato and Wilson and the British frigate Rothesay were sidelined for refueling after fruitlessly chasing the Santa Maria through the Caribbean.

But two U.S. destroyers on a goodwill tour of West African ports—the Vogelgesang and Gearing—were ordered out to intercept the runaway and tail her.

A report from Trinidad said the high-speed nuclear submarine Seawolf and the fleet tanker Canisteo also had been ordered to overtake the Santa Maria.

Wives Happy Over Release Of 2 Airmen

try. The fate of the other three is unknown.

"We never gave up hope," said both Mrs. Olmstead and Mrs. McKone Wednesday night. One was calm, the other fighting tears. "Connie, I'm so happy," said Mrs. Olmstead to Mrs. McKone weepingly. "I'm still completely dry," said Mrs. McKone with a grin.

The two women had gotten the freed just five minutes before President Kennedy announced it word that their husbands were during his televised news conference. The President telephoned Mrs. McKone after the conference and she said he told her how happy he was that the fliers had been freed.

Parentist Happy

There was the same kind of overwhelming joy in Elmira, where Olmstead's parents got the news "like a bombshell out of the blue" as they watched Kennedy on TV.

"We simply broke down in the tears," said the father. "It is the most marvelous birthday that I have ever had." He is 64 today. But there was bitterness and grief in the Topeka home of Mrs. Oscar L. Goforth, wife of one of the plane's three crewmen who are still missing and presumed dead.

Mrs. Goforth told newsmen, "If my husband is dead, I will always blame President Eisenhower. If he had handled things differently, my husband would not be where he is—wherever he is."

Messages Unanswered

She said she had sent a telegram and a letter to Eisenhower, asking more information about her husband's fate, but received no answer.

Mrs. Goforth said she has never given up hope that her husband is alive, and now hopes to get a first hand account of the shooting down of the plane from Olmstead and McKone. "I am in a state of suspense," she said. "It's terrible."

The body of a fourth victim, pilot Willard B. Palm of Oak Ridge, Tenn., was found by the Soviets, they said, floating in a rubber life raft in the icy Barents Sea. Palm's body was returned and he was buried with honors at Arlington National Cemetery.

Palm's widow had a different reaction. "I am so happy to hear the news," she said. "I hope now we can find out a lot of things—the truth—and just what happened to the other boys."

Shot Down July 1

When a reporter expressed regret that Mrs. Palm's husband

Mrs. Bruce Olmstead (Left) and Mrs. John McKone grinned joyously as they sat in the home of their husbands' Air Force commander at Topeka Wednesday evening. President Kennedy had announced only an hour earlier at his press conference that the Russians had freed the two crew members of the American RB47 downed last July. The pair sipped coffee between telephone calls, one of which was from President Kennedy.

Word on Freed Fliers Tops Press Conference

question on whether the release resulted from some action he took.

Envoy Took Initiative

After the conference there were conflicting versions.

An official in close touch with Kennedy reported that Soviet Premier Khrushchev first brought up the matter when he called U.S. Ambassador Llewellyn E. Thompson to the Kremlin last Saturday.

At the State Department, however, top officials said they understood that Thompson—acting on instructions from Kennedy—took the initiative regarding release of the airmen during that same meeting with Khrushchev.

Kennedy, wearing a dark blue pin-striped suit, was a completely unruffled master of the situation during the entire 36½-minute of his first meeting with newsmen since he took office last Friday. Cool and confident, the 43-year-old President volunteered an announcement near the start of the conference regarding freeing of the fliers. That news topped everything else by a clear margin as could not return too, she said. "I'm sorry too. I certainly hope that God in his wisdom knows best."

The six-jet RB47 was shot down last July 1. Olmstead and McKone parachuted to safety, though Olmstead received a serious back injury. Of the others, only Palm's body was returned.

The missing men are Capt. Eugene E. Posa, 38, of Santa Monica, Calif., 1st Lt. Dean B. Phillips, 25, of Inwood, N.Y., and 1st Lt. Goforth.

Coming just two months after the U2 spy plane was shot down deep inside the Soviet Union, the RB47 incident was seized on by the Soviets to add fuel to that fire. They said the RB47 had violated the Soviet Union's frontier and said it showed U.S. aerial spying was continuing in spite of President Eisenhower's assurance that it was not.

On Mapping Mission The United States declared the RB47 was on an electromagnetic mapping mission and had never been closer than 30 miles to the Soviet border.

Moscow carried the RB47 case to the United Nations, but failed to get it before the U.S. Security Council.

Olmstead and McKone were to phone their wives in Topeka Wednesday night from Amsterdam, but they missed connections somehow and didn't. Their first greeting to their wives therefore may be at their face to face reunion here today.

Mrs. McKone said she'll cook her husband a meal he longed for in a letter to her—steak, cream of mushroom gravy, creamed peas, baked potato and banana cream pie.

Mrs. Olmstead, a petite blonde, was asked if she planned any special to give to her husband. "Just me," she said.

the questions and answers ranged over a wide field.

Ban on Spy Flights

The questions brought these replies on these topics:

Spy Flights—The President said he has ordered continuance of the ban on American espionage flights over Soviet territory. The ban was put into effect last May by President Eisenhower after the Khrushchev furore over the U2 episode—an incident which caused collapse of the Paris summit conference and put Soviet-American relations on the skids.

Nuclear Talks—Kennedy also volunteered that his administration has requested "more time to prepare a clear American position" before resumption at Geneva of negotiations on an atomic test ban. The talks among American, Soviet and British officials had been scheduled to start again Feb. 7. Kennedy is seeking a postponement until late March.

Messages Promised

Messages—The President said the State of the Union message he will deliver in person before a joint session of Congress Monday will be followed by others dealing with specific problems. He mentioned two others—one going to the Capitol shortly after the State of the Union document will outline "the steps we think the government could profitably take to provide protection for the unemployed, and also to stimulate the economy." The other, in about two weeks, will tackle the problem of stemming the disturbing flow of gold from the United States.

Dependents Overseas—As for the Eisenhower order cutting back the number of service and civilian family members stationed abroad in a move to reduce the gold flow, Kennedy said he and key aides will decide soon "whether a more satisfactory method of protecting our gold could be secured than providing for the return of Americans serving abroad in the military."

Cuban Situation Unchanged Cuba—"We have no plan at present," said Kennedy. "To resume diplomatic relations with Cuba." He added that his administration is extremely interested in helping to provide a better life for Latin Americans. But he also said—in obvious allusion to the possibility of a Communist takeover of Cuba's Castro regime—that the United States is concerned about any effort to impose "an ideology (in Cuba) which is alien to this hemisphere."

Summit Conference—Kennedy said nothing to slam the door against the possibility of his meeting with Khrushchev. But the President said "there has been no change in my previous statement that there are no plans at the present time" for such a conference. As for whether Khrushchev may come to the United States again in March for another United Nations session, Kennedy said he had seen only newspaper reports on that possibility and preferred not to comment.

Congo—Another announcement the President volunteered at the start of the news conference was that this country will substantially increase its food shipments to the Congo to relieve the famine there. He said the United States will cooperate fully with the United Nations on this project.

Disarmament—Kennedy said "We are preparing clarification of the American positions" on disarmament, and indicated the new administration will move cautiously in that area before taking a public stand.

Ship—The President reported: "I have not given any instructions to the Navy to carry out any boarding operation" against the hijacked Portuguese cruise ship Santa Maria.

Budget—Kennedy doesn't know yet whether his administration will be able to live within the Eisenhower regime's $80.9-billion spending budget for the fiscal year starting July 1. "We have not finished our study," he said.

Kennedy's news conference was held in the State Department's spacious new auditorium. Officials announced 418 newsmen attended. The record attendance for Eisenhower news conferences was 311.

Televised Nationally

The news—first formal presidential news conference held at night—was broadcast live by all major American TV and radio networks, by the British Broadcasting Corp., to Britain, and the U.S. Information Agency recorded it and beamed it abroad later at peak listening hours in various areas around the globe.

12 small whole carrots
1/2 cup water
1/4 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons honey
1/4 teaspoon chervil
Wash, scrape carrots. Cook in salted water in covered saucepan until almost tender. When water has evaporated, add butter, honey and chervil. Cook gently, rolling carrots until well glazed.

Macaroon Pudding
1/2 cup sugar
2 teaspoons flour
2 eggs, beaten
2 cups scalded milk
4 ounces maraschino cherries
2 tablespoons unflavored gelatin
1 teaspoon almond flavoring
14 1/2 ounces evaporated milk, whipped
2 dozen almond macaroons, crushed
1/2 cup toasted chopped walnuts
Combine sugar and flour. Add 6 beaten eggs in top of double boiler. Blend in scalded milk. Cook over simmering water, stirring constantly, until mixture coats spoon.

Drain and quarter cherries; reserve juice. Set cherries aside. Dissolve gelatin in cherry juice. Add gelatin and juice to hot custard with almond flavoring. Chill until slightly thick.

After thickened, fold in whipped evaporated milk. Re-chill. Then fold in macaroon crumbs, nuts and cherries. Refrigerate until firm. Garnish with whipped topping, if desired.

Declarer hastened to win the trick with dummy's ace of diamonds. He then led a trump from dummy to his king. East took the next trump trick with the ace of spades and returned his low diamond. West took the queen of diamonds and led another diamond to give East a ruff—the setting trick.

It's easy to see that South expected East to hold the queen of diamonds as well as the king. Why was this wrong, and how should South have played the hand?

Don't Expect Foolishness
It's easy to answer one of the questions if you just put yourself in East's place. Suppose you held the ace of spades, the ace of hearts, and the king-queen of diamonds. How would you defend? You would sit back and wait for two diamond tricks to come your way. You wouldn't jeopardize one of your tricks by leading the king of diamonds.

Don't expect your opponent to act foolishly. If he leads the king of diamonds he doesn't have the queen.

Once you come to this conclusion you can assure the contract by allowing East to win the second trick with his king of diamonds. Sooner or later you will draw trumps and finesse through West for the queen of diamonds. East never gets the chance to ruff a diamond, and thus never gets the setting trick.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner bids one spade, and the next player doubles. You hold S-K J 5 2 H-9 5 2 D-J 10 6 C-10 4 3. What do you say?

Answer: Bid two spades. The simple raise after an opponent's takeout double shows only trump support in a very poor hand. You are interested in shutting out the next opponent, if you can.

Your Problems

Mother of 2 Who Never Needed Maternity Clothes Is Exception

BY ANN LANDERS
DEAR ANN LANDERS: That letter from Francine was absurd. It just isn't true that a woman has to look like a blimp because she's pregnant. I gained nine pounds with my last baby. Two days before I went to the hospital I met a friend on the street and she asked me if I had had a boy or a girl. She was flabbergasted when I told her I was due to go to the hospital any day.

Some pregnant women think they can eat for two and get away with it. No wonder they look like blimps. I've had two children and have never worn maternity clothes. So you see — it can be done. — Same Size

Dear Same Size: Yes — it can be done, but I'd hate to leave the impression that anyone who wants to can (or should) do it. Most obstetricians want their patients to gain between 15 and 18 pounds, depending on starting weight and general physical condition.

(P.S. I'll bet your women friends hate you!!!)

DEAR ANN LANDERS: We have four children and they are well behaved as a result of firm handling. My husband, particularly, does not believe in taking any nonsense from kids.

Recently we were visiting in the home of my brother and his wife. They have three children who do pretty much as they please. Their seven-year-old son, Victor, became fascinated with my husband's cuff links. He asked if he could play with them. My husband said, "No, they are not two toys." The child replied, "If you children and have never worn maternity clothes. So you see — it can be done. — Same Size

Dear Same Size: Yes — it can be done, but I'd hate to leave the impression that anyone who wants to can (or should) do it. Most obstetricians want their hard swat across the seat of the pants. The child screamed and ran to his father. My husband was criticized by both parents and we left shortly after.

They claim nobody has the right to lay a hand on anyone else's child and that their children are never subjected to physical violence. I have mixed feelings about this. Do you have a word for my husband? — Split Emotions

Dear Split: Yes, just one. Congratulations.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Gregory gave me an engagement ring after five years of steady courtship. He asked me not to wear it "for awhile" because he had been going with another woman for quite some time and wanted to break off with her gradually. I kept the ring in the drawer for six months then told him if he didn't want me to wear it I wanted to give it back. He said O.K. and he took the ring.

Last night he told me he had given the ring to the other woman as a birthday gift. He emphasized it was only because he didn't want to spend any money on a present and he hoped I would understand. He begged me to be patient and to trust him.

I've cut myself off from all male companions and I'd be terribly alone if I broke off with him. Advise me. — Griselda

Dear Griselda: Wake up and smell the coffee — you're alone now. This man has been working both sides of the street and you would be a fool to believe anything he said. Give him the heave ho.

To learn the knack of feeling comfortable with the opposite sex, send for Ann Landers' booklet, "How To Be Date Bait," enclosing your request 20 cents in dressing, particularly when locks become dull and endy. You simply surface the hair with dressing, very lightly, and then brush.

After six weeks of that treatment, a lackluster head becomes lustrous!

Oasis Treatment for Hair

For women with hair as dry as the Sahara, here is the way to an oasis where reviving moisture and oils abound:

Step One is brushing for five minutes daily. This stimulates the circulation in the scalp and polishes every strand. Both actions are highly desirable. To increase their value, use a spanking clean brush, bend over from the waist and let the head dangle, and stroke gently from scalp to ends.

Step Two comprises a weekly wash, with a shampoo designed for dry conditions. Several new kinds have special virtues. One tent — yuccarone, moisturizers, the pH factor — sounds revolutionary. But all have proven beneficial. Yuccarone, from the yucca plant, produces billowing lather. Having much the same effect on the hair as the skin, moisturizers penetrate the hair shaft and keep it pliant; the pH factor neutralizes the scalp and thus fights dryness.

Step Three is the use of a conditioning cream or lotion hair-dressing, particularly when locks become dull and endy. You simply surface the hair with dressing, very lightly, and then brush.

After six weeks of that treatment, a lackluster head becomes lustrous!

among them, formulated with lanolin and anti-dandruff ingredients, offers conditioning, sheen, manageability and an end in flake.

Another type brings a custom-made salon shampoo into the home. As shampoos go, the con-

FAMILY WAR

I am a bride-to-be with a family dilemma. For the past 18 years, my mother and my father's mother literally have not been on speaking terms. We live in the same neighborhood which makes it all very awkward. While preparing our invitation list, mother refused to invite my grandmother.

What can I do? Father has never taken sides and refuses to intervene. He knows how much I want my mother to come.

Louise Davis Answers:

I don't see what more you can do. You probably can't force your mother to have a change of heart after all these years. Keep on trying. If her animosity is as violent as it appears, she would consider her mother-in-law an unwelcome guest, and therefore won't allow herself to put down the welcome mat. If she is relentless, I suggest that you ask your father to explain to his mother that the omission of her name on the invitation is none of his or your doing. However, your grandmother would undoubtedly know that anyway. There are more feuding families than meet the eye. But as mature adults, the majority of them are able to get together under one roof with their how-do-you-do's without pulling each other's hair. It is a shame that your mother and grandmother don't declare at least a temporary truce for your wedding. It would be up to your mother to take the initiative. For your sake as well as for the sake of the others including her own, I hope she will pocket her pride and bury the hatchet.

Homemakers to Attend Basic Clothing Workshop

Homemakers in Omro and Eureka areas will attend a basic clothing workshop beginning the first part of March. New construction methods will be part of this six-week workshop.

"Cut to Fit" is the next series of leader training programs to be conducted by Beverly Rabas, Winnebago County assistant home agent. It will include information on pattern selection and alteration. Neenah Center will meet Tuesday at Spring Road School; Winnebago Center meets Wednesday at Mrs. Lillian Skafte's; Allenville Center meets Thursday at Allenville Baptist Church, and Omro Center Friday at Omro City Hall.

All meetings will begin at 1 p.m. Oshkosh, Eureka and Winnebago Centers will meet the week beginning Feb. 6. Specific dates will be announced.

Increasing Demand For Hot Water

Many families have to juggle their living schedules today because antiquated water heaters simply can't keep up with hot water demands. Everytime someone takes a shower or a bath, at least ten gallons of hot water go down the drain. An automatic washer needs 25 to 30 gallons of hot water for each load of laundry. A dishwasher takes another 10 gallons. That's why automatic water heaters today outnumber competitive types 5 to 1. They provide the quickest recovery of water heat.

Proper Place For Thermostat

If your house is frequently too hot, or too cold, your thermostat may need replacing or it may be improperly located. According to heating experts, it should be located on an inside wall at least two feet away from the nearest outside wall and out of range of drafts from windows or doors. It should also be some distance from the fireplace, radiator or any heat-producing appliances.

Our Children

Promote Children's Healthy Hobbies

BY ANGELO PATRI

Children about the age of 10, collect things, any sort of thing will do; picture cards, stones, butterflies, comics, marbles. At this age, often known as the crow's age because of its indiscriminate selections, quality seems unimportant. Numbers seem to be the thing: a lot of somethings is the idea.

This hobby is important to children so mothers are patient about the mess they often make in the children's rooms, and occasionally their pockets. Well directed, these hobbies often become life interests and a source of enjoyment as well as knowledge.

Needs Supervision Like all other interests of children, this will bear some supervision. A casual glance at the collection, a bit of interest in its progress will please the child, make him feel that his mother and father like what he likes and that makes him feel 10 feet high at the time, which is all to the good.

A mother stopped by the table where her boy, aged 9, was trading picture cards with a chum. She noticed an off-color picture and said, "Where did you get this one, son?" "Oh, that. Remember when I sent that letter you gave me the stamp for? I got that one more and better ones if I sent 25 cents. Gee. Twenty-five cents. Nothing doing. I only like the animal ones. Give you this dog for an elephant?"

Why people want to sell pornographic pictures, especially to children and adolescents, is beyond me. As a way to earn a living it does seem about the lowliest and meanest ever discovered. The boys of 9 years are not likely to be interested so much as are some of the adolescents, especially those who are in search of what they consider secrets hidden from them by selfish adults. Such boys, even a few girls, are keenly interested in such pictures.

It is a good idea to take an occasional glance at the children's collections. First to share their interests and promote the healthy ones. Next to make certain no evil thing is being handed them. Sound sex teaching is a great defense against the indecent pictures that are offered to youth these days.

Spacious Rooms, Clear, Definite Colors Give Unusual Charm to Arthur Hedlund Home

BY MARION DREW
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

A house that combines modern architecture successfully with warmth and an atmosphere of old-fashioned hospitality, is that of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hedlund, 427 Park Drive, Neenah.

Because the rooms are spacious and the colors clear and definite, the house has unusual charm. Well-planned details are unobtrusive and blend well with the overall effect in each room.

A sizable entrance hall, with a practical grey slate floor, has a 4-panel screen dividing it from the living room. The screen itself is a replica of the four seasons, delicately done in bronze, through which one can see into the sunken living room and out the wide glass windows into the garden beyond.

Woody Tones

The living room is done in "earthy, woody tones," Mrs. Hedlund says, and is a handsome combination of brown, green and yellow, with cafe au lait walls. The furniture is comfortable, informal and proportionately large. An unusual Japanese floral print is over the fireplace and pastel portraits of the Hedlunds' children hang over the couch.

Up two steps to a hall the walls are curved which creates an unusual and interesting dining room, flowing off the hall as though part of it. The walls have a distinctive floral mural, giving a garden effect to the room. Chairs are upholstered in soft rose fabric. The furniture is limed oak and with dramatic cove lighting, which can be subdued to a romantic candlelight, it is a dramatic and striking background for entertaining.

Room For Television

A comfortable bookroom holds the television set and is large enough for guests who drop in for viewing. One wall is filled with books to the ceiling, and besides being well-read and useful, they make a colorful and decorative background. Furniture, carpeting and draperies in this room are soft beige and off-white. This room, too, overlooks the garden.

A powder room of blue tile, papered in a dusty rose geometric pattern is conveniently located for both the bookroom and the kitchen.

A playroom which was used when the children were small is large and on a slightly lower level. The basement is down another short flight of steps. The Hedlunds jokingly remarked that the house is on six levels. Each level is only a few feet up or down, but creates a surprising aura of privacy.

Green, Beige Combination

The master bedroom is on the landing and is strikingly done in emerald green and beige. An emerald green velvet slipper chair and sand colored chaise lounge as well as mahogany furniture with straight, clean lines give an impression of quiet repose. The room is very large with beautifully draped windows. A large bath is off the bedroom.

Up a few more steps are two bedrooms of the Hedlund's son and daughter. Kathie, a student at Smith College, has a feminine room done in azure blue, with a floral wallpaper canopy over the entire ceiling. This matches the upholstery and dust ruffles on the twin beds. This room, too, is very large and has two tremendous closets.

Masculine Tone

The room belonging to the Hedlund's son, Jim, who is a junior in high school, is done in a masculine orange, brown and white plaid. The furniture is plain and functional, with a large desk and good light. Corner windows make both the top floor bedrooms cheerful and bright with excellent artificial lighting for reading and study. There is a large bathroom for the use of the two bedrooms on this level.

Although the Hedlunds built the house in 1951 when the children were young, it is well planned for changes in family life. Unused rooms may be closed off without spoiling the spacious effect.

The kitchen has a dining area and there is a screened porch as well.

Mr. Hedlund is an enthusiastic and successful gardener and rose growing is one of his hobbies. It is not surprising that the house is situated so that most of the rooms overlook the garden.

The Master-bedroom is done in emerald green and beige colors, which are effective and warm. The room is extremely large, with huge windows looking into the garden and woods beyond. The furniture is a dark mahogany. There is a beige chaise longue and an emerald green velvet slipper chair as well as traditional tables and highboys.

Dior Offers Slim Look In Styles

BY NADEANE WALKER

PARIS, (AP) — Designer Marc Bohan stripped the spinach from ashion this morning in a ladylike collection for Dior that may well prove the biggest style hit since he new look.

What Bohan names the "slim look" is a silhouette with a long, waistless bodice to the top of the up, with lightly flared skirts often hewing a bit of the kneecap.

Enthusiastic applause throughout the show made it clear that Bohan has a smash hit for his debut as a replacement for Yves Saint-Laurent.

If the bosom and the waist are passed in the "slim look," hips are hugged and legs emphasized. The most astonishing thing about the show was that it contained not a single eccentricity.

Flapper Era

The long-waisted, short-skirted general outline naturally recalls the flapper era, but Bohan's interpretation is fresh as a daisy. His rare and simple elegance had the audience murmuring favorable comparisons with Molyneux at the top of his form.

The influence of the 'twenties is strongest in evening wear, for Bohan makes dozens of waistless leaded sheaths, all with hip belts or tight fitting at the hip.

Lady Diana Duff Cooper and the Duchess of Windsor were at the press opening, and Lady Diana, peering at the mannequins through tinted green plastic-framed glasses, saw a printed chiffon formal with trailing train named "Diana" or her.

Unfrilly Elegance

Whatever happens to Saint-Laurent, who suffered a nervous breakdown during a brief spell of military service, Marc Bohan made his name in fashion this morning. Nobody believes Dior will willingly let him go now.

Women should love his unfrilly, easy to wear, easy to walk in clothes, which for once are as pretty as they are elegant. A fairly slim pair of hips is the only thing they require.

When the 34-year-old designer forgot his ladylike look to cut just three necklines that plunged right to the waist, the audience took it as a joke and laughed.

Quality Range

Many kitchen accidents are due to insufficient light at work areas. To prevent this, ranges of quality have a light on the back panel as well as in the oven. A well lighted range will save on cooking and baking failures, too.

Four delicate bronze panels depicting the seasons screen the foyer from the living room in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hedlund, 427 Park Drive, Neenah. Through the panels there is a view of the garden beyond. The living room colors repeat the tones of the outdoor scene. Blue and dark red tones predominate in the bedroom, below, of Kathy Hedlund. The effective canopied ceiling is papered in a print that repeats the chintz used as a dressing table skirt and dust ruffles on the beds.

'Seamy' Life Appeals to 90-Year-Old

BY RAY KOHN

NEW YORK (AP) — The "seamy" side of life still appeals to fashion-wise Lottie Plump, still busy at her sewing on the eve of her 90th birthday.

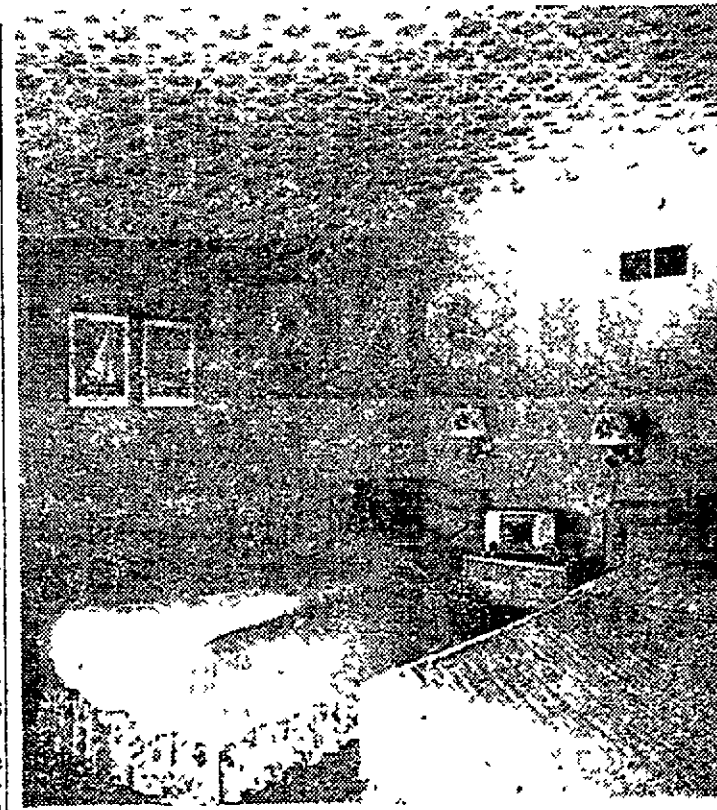

Miss Lottie, as they call her where she works (Bergdorf Goodman), has been busy with the needle since the gaslight era. And she continues to take it all in her stride—a firm stride, too.

Her keen blue eyes combine with her agile fingers to sew that extra-fine seam, as she was doing Wednesday in her employer's workroom.

She started in 1903—where she is now—as a skirt fitter. A few years later another tailor offered her more money.

"Mama said," the pert seamstress recalls, "if you like it there, stay; money isn't everything. I wanted to be happy in my work, so I stayed."

Marriage did end Miss Lottie's career for a few years. But her husband died and she returned to sewing at the same old stand in what she does on weekends by asking one: "Who's going to clean the house?"

Post-Crescent Photos

Thirty-seven years later, she commutes from her home in Bogota, N.J., and that takes some commuting: an interstate bus and then two city buses.

Miss Lottie shrugged off comments on how she insists on coming to work even in weather like the recent snowstorm.

"I've had happy days here," she said, "I wouldn't be here if justing her neat, snow-white coiffure. But I have never seen."

She answered the question of skirts as tight as they are now."

Postpone Darkening Of Paneling

BY ROGER C. WHITMAN
NON-DARKENING PINE FINISH

Question: Is there any kind of finish that can be applied to new knotty pine wall paneling so that the wood will never darken?

Answer: All wood darkens eventually with age. However, a water clear varnish finish, of good quality, won't itself darken and speed the mellowing of the wood.

ELECTRIC HEATING SYSTEM

Question: I intend to install complete electric heating system instead of coal furnace. Where can I get a good, practical book on this subject?

Answer: I recommend writing to Westinghouse Electric Corporation, Emeryville, Calif., for a copy of their Users Guide for Electric Heating and other literature they may have available. Send 15 cents (no stamps) to Superintendent of Documents, Washington 25, D.C., for a copy of "Electric House Heating" (No. A 68.3:142-1), which contains a bibliography of books on the subject as well as a discussion of various types of equipment, estimating heat requirements and installation.

PUDDLE IN CORNER OF CEMENT PORCH

Question: We have a cement porch which slopes toward the door. When it rains there is always a puddle in the corner by the door. Is there any way this problem can be solved?

Answer: The slope of the floor will have to be changed so that the water runs off the porch; this is accomplished by putting down a new cement topping. For detailed instructions on laying new cement floors, write to the Portland Cement Association, 33 W. Grand Ave., Chicago 10, Ill.

RAMBLER DECEMBER SALES SET 39th STRAIGHT MONTHLY RECORD

Despite all the new competition, Rambler sales continue to soar, because comparisons prove Rambler outvalues anything else on the road. Here are the reasons:

Rambler Excellence

No other car is built like, saves like, lasts like Rambler. Deep-Dip rustproofing fights rust longest. Single-Unit construction is stronger, lastingly rattle-free. Muffler and tailpipe are ceramic armored to be acid resistant, rust resistant. Scores of other basic advances.

Official Economy King

Rambler American Custom topped all compacts in major economy tests, including 1960 Mobilgas Economy Run.

Proved Lowest Upkeep

Owner reports prove Rambler America's most trouble-free car.

America's Lowest Prices

Rambler American is the lowest-priced U. S.-built car by at least $67*. Rambler Classic costs hundreds less than so-called "low-priced" cars. Ambassador V-8 by Rambler gives you top performance and luxury—saves you hundreds of dollars.

Top Resale Value

and Drive for Lutheran High Proposed

$475,000 Would be Used for Debt Payment, Building

Member congregations of Fox Lutheran High School Federation are being asked to ratify proposal for a $475,000 funding program for debt retirement and school expansion.
The proposal made by the federation's general board last night is for using 90 per cent of the money received for retirement of a $247,000 debt, with 10 cent to bolster operational expenses. When the debt is paid, all ies would go for expansion.
Though the extent of building expansion has not been decided, board estimates that about $400,000 would be needed. Enrollment increases were cited as the reason for the proposal.

Donations Increase
A committee of two men from one of the 18 member Wisconsin Lutheran congregations is helping promote and unify collective efforts. The proposal must be ratified in 90 days.
The treasurer's report showed contributions of $82,500 for operation. This is a considerable increase over 1959 but still t of original budget plans.
The FVL executive board of responsibility called the Rev. O.
Summer of Immanuel Luth-erian Church, Town of Greenville, the federation's new president.
Lloyd Doerflinger, Mt. Olive Lutheran Church, Appleton, vice president. Re-elected were Mr.
J. Stendel, treasurer, and Richsonnenberg, financial secretary, both of St. Paul Lutheran Church, Appleton.
New appointees to standing committees include Henry Kuhn, Lutheran Church, Appleton;
Ap- to the building committee,
Gerhard Roloff, St. Matthew Lutheran Church, Appleton; Rev.
derick Thierfelder, Riverview Lutheran Church, Appleton; and Charles Schleier, Bethlehem Lutheran Church, Hortonville, to school visitation committee.
$500 offset duplicating machine expected to increase quality reduce cost of the large unit of printing needed for the book, it was reported.

ng-Time Elk Old-Time Baseball Star, Hogriever, Dead

George "Stormy" Hogriever, 91,
r for the Appleton Elks Lodge 337 for the last 46 years and well-known, old-time baseball er, died at 5:15 a.m. today
r a three-month illness. He born in Cincinnati March 17, 1870.
Baseball was Stormy's life because a shoulder injury forced his reirement as an active player in 1912. The All-American sport remained his abiding interest throughout his life and, as many Fox Valley residents know, Stormy knew the names and batting averages of most of the big league players.
On the surface he was a gruff, frequently belligerent man, his wide circle of friends and maintenances knew that this was facade for a warm and generous person whose ability to spin a baseball yarn was unbeatable. A year that he met the Appleton monial dinner was held for him when he retired as Elks Club ward in 1951. He had been the club's steward for 40 years. The club organized an 89th birthday party for him at the club to honor him for holding the office of club steward longer than any Elk member in the United States. "Stormy's club" in the Appleton lodge building was named for him.
Services Saturday
Funeral services will be at 2 p.m. Saturday at the Valley Fu-eral Home with the Rev. Richard Schroeder, assistant pastor of St. Methodist Church, officiating. Burial will be in Riverside cemetery. Friends may call at 3 p.m. Friday at the funeral home where the Elks Club will conduct special services at 7 p.m.
Friday.
Hogriever got his start as a professional ballplayer back in 1889 and when he played at Norton, Ohio, in the old Tri-le league. In 1890 he was with the Kansas City team and in 1891 with the Wisconsin State team in the Wisconsin State League.

Decline Expected in K-C Sales For Last Quarter of 1960

Executive Vice President Says
Firm Feels Business Activity Drop

Kimberly-Clark Corp. earnings fell said it was difficult to forecast third quarter sales at this time but they probably will trail
last year's.
"Barring totally unforeseen and unexpected developments between now and April 30, the end of our fiscal year, we will wind up the
year with both sales and earnings
ahead of last year," Crowell said.
For fiscal 1960 the company reported net income of $31,342,614,
or $3.51 a share, on net sales of $408,758,696.
In a talk to the St. Louis Society of Financial Analysts, Crowell said it was difficult to forecast third quarter sales at this time but they probably will trail
last year's.
"Barring totally unforeseen and
unexpected developments between now and April 30, the end of our fiscal year, we will wind up the
year with both sales and earnings
ahead of last year," Crowell said.

ported net income of $31,342,614,
or $3.51 a share, on net sales of $408,758,696.

Feel Decline
Crowell said Kimberly-Clark is "beginning to feel the effects of the decline in general business activity particularly in publication and business papers." He added that the decline in total advertising lineage in November and December had cut into paper consumption.
"What will be the exact impact during our last two quarters is impossible to determine at this time," he said.
Crowell said consumer products accounted for about 57 per cent of the company's current sales; publication and magazine white papers, 28 per cent; cigarette and fine papers, 12 per cent, and industrial wadding principally for packaging and insulation uses, 3 per cent.
Foreign sales for fiscal 1961 are expected to climb to the $57 million to $60 million level from approximately $50 million last year, the official said. Foreign sales include Canadian operations.
Capital expenditures for fiscal 1961 will be about $35 million, or $5 million under the rate anticipated earlier in the year. The reason for the decline did not involve "cancellation of projects but merely inability to spend the money at a rate earlier indicated," Crowell said.

Major Projects
The major projects under way are a new crepe wadding machine at Fullerton, Calif., a new publication paper machine at Niagara, Wis., a new business paper machine at Dayton, Ohio, and a new cigarette paper machine at Spot-wood, N.J.

Concerning Kimberly - Clark's proposed acquisition of all the outstanding stock of the Ralph L.
Smith Lumber Co. of Calif., Crowell said "chances are about 50-50 that the deal will be consummated." Kimberly - Clark proposed to exchange 381,294 shares of its common stock for all of the outstanding stock of the West Coast Lumber concern.
The executive spelled out three basic problems currently confronting the paper industry: High capital costs in relationship to sales generated, non-utilized capacity within the last five years in certain branches of the industry, and the failure of prices to keep pace with higher costs for raw materials, labor and transportation.

Attitude Valued in Job, Panel Agrees

Industry Personnel Heads Discuss Work Outlook
For High School Students

MENASHA — Attitude rather than aptitude often is a trait more highly valued by industry in a prospective job applicant, five professional industry personnel workers from area firms stressed at a PTA meeting of junior and senior high school parents last night.
Personnel workers on the panel at the high school included Alan MacGregor, Marathon Division; Raymond Durkee, Kimberly-Clark Corp., Neenah mill; A. P. Engerbreton, Wisconsin State Employment Service; Herman DuPont, Kimberly-Clark Corp., and Hayward Biggers, vice president, George Banta Co.

Failure to get along with others is one of the single most important reasons experienced workers fall by the wayside, the men agree. A young person's greatest problem is failure to give wholehearted attention and persistent application to the job at hand, MacGregor said.

Aptitude Qualities
Personnel workers judge aplicants on "can do" and "will do" qualities, he added. "We are after a high 'can do' but with at least equal 'will do.'" Aptitude qualities for those working in manufacturing areas include neat, clean appearance; physical soundness; interest in hobbies; adaptiveness to machine-type repetitive jobs; judgment; ability to make decisions quickly; willingness to be tied to a relatively small area and physical and mental versatility, Durkee said.

"Attitudes are more important but harder to measure," he added. "Industry cannot tolerate for long workers that are non-conformists. We can't take any mavericks."
Sign of Times
Other qualifications for a manufacturing type person include willingness to give a fair day's work and ability to lead uncluttered personal lives. Those that are married should be free of entanglements, he added.

"One of the signs of the times is that people only do what is asked and nothing more," Enge-breton said. A major complaint of employers, he added, is "lack of worker initiative."
He suggested vocational school as a possible solution to training necessary for young people entering the job market for specialized trades.

Assembly Must Concur
Third Outagamie Court
Gets Senate Approval

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
MADISON — The Wisconsin state senate today passed a bill to create a third county court for Outagamie County.
If the state assembly concurs and Gov. Nelson signs the bill in time, an election for judge will be held in April. Candidates will have until Feb. 10 to circulate nomination petitions to qualify for the April ballot, under the terms of the proposal.
The measure would also authorize one additional judge each in Dodge, LaCrosse and Racine counties.
The bill was introduced by Sen. Gerald Lorge of Bear Creek and was endorsed by the State Judicial Council.
Under the state judicial reorganization law which will take effect next January, there will be a uniform system of county courts throughout Wisconsin.
Judges will have a minimum salary of $12,000. Half of the costs of operation of the courts will be borne by the state treasury.

Well-Known Whistler Warbles Commercial to Overtures

BY MICHELE LEBER
Post-Crescent Staff Writer
Fred Lowery admits stopping short of breaking glass and imitating birds with his whistle.
But beyond that his performances run the gamut from a familiar soft drink commercial to the finale of the William Tell overture.
And his reputation as the world's greatest whistler seems well-grounded.
Lowery arrived backstage at the Appleton High School auditorium less than 15 minutes before he was to present the school's fifth lyceum program of this school year Wednesday, and within an hour AHS students were whistling their way to their sixth hour classes.
While his wife, Gracie, arranged sound equipment for the program, Lowery, who has been almost blind since he was 2, stepped confidently over and between backstage ropes and lights, talking of his background in a very limited field of entertainment.
Whistled for Presidents
"I've whistled for two presidents," he said, "Roosevelt and Truman. This doesn't necessarily mean I'm a Democrat, or it doesn't necessarily mean I'm a Republican. It doesn't mean anything—but I will admit to being a Texan." Lowery began his career in whistling — which was inspired by a whistling entertainer he heard in high school when he was 17 — with the Vincent Lopez band.
He has appeared since with bands directed by Horace Heidt, Stan Kenton, Harry James, Paul Whitman — "almost any band that was in existence," he says.
He has made stage, club, radio and television appearances, now

Wednesday afternoon.

Woman Receives Neck Injury in Crash

MENASHA — Mrs. August Zieg-er, 266 N. Park Ave., Neenah, complained of a whiplash neck injury Monday after the car she was in was struck from the rear
by an auto operated by Thomas J.
Kohanski, 838 Third St.

James D. Kellnhauser, 18, 200 First St., was the driver of the truck which struck the rear of a halted car operated by Warren J.
Boushley, 35, 120 Fourth St., Ne-enah, on the Tayco Street bridge
Wednesday afternoon.

Lips Barely Pursued but with facial and throat muscles working, Fred Lowery demonstrates his well-known whistle, which has gone on record for such hit songs as "Indian Love Call" and "The High and the Mighty." Lowery, billed as the world's greatest whistler, presented a lyceum program at Appleton High School Wednesday.

Remarkable Range
His whistling range alone is remarkable — four octaves when it's straight whistling, he says, two and a half octaves with the warble, and one and a half of his harmony whistling, the one-man, two-part whistle which he can do with seconds, thirds, fourths, and even fifths and sixths.
"And all it takes is five or six hours a day practice."
Some of the whistler's most popular individual recordings were included in his program, "The High and the Mighty," and "Indian Love Call," which sold two million copies in the 1940s — and the students responded, giving the program a whistling ovation.
It's Contagious
Students left the auditorium
whistling, and even Lowery's wife Gracie whistled a brief accompaniment to the high school organist.
"It's contagious," she explained,
grinning.
This is the fourth season of high school entertaining for the couple.
Lowery says it's the field he has enjoyed most and he intends to stay with it.
And he's left few areas of whistling unexplored. As far as breaking glass is concerned, he says,
"I'm going to practice that this summer. I've got a pretty good idea how it's done."
And as for the birds, this is an area he intends to leave unexplored. "If they stay on their side of the fence, I'll stay on mine."

Employe Group Hikes Benefits

Thilmany Workers Elect Officers at Annual Meeting

KAUKAUNA — The board of directors of the Thilmany Employee Association voted at the annual meeting to increase maximum maternity benefits and raise the maximum allowed for dental and optical service.

The increase in premiums necessary to meet the additional benefits are to be absorbed by the organization's reserve fund for the present, according to L. C. Smith, T.E.A. secretary. The company pays 65 per cent of all insurance premiums with the employee paying 35 per cent.

Change in maternity benefits raised the maximum from $98 to $120. The maximum per year for dental service was increased from $35 to $45, and the maximum for optical service from $20 to $30. The association pays half of the dental and optical costs up to these maximums. Changes are effective April 1.

Smith indicated that if employees had to pay the increased in premiums, it would amount to about 15 cents a month.

All officers and members of the executive committee were reelected. These include Henry Maes, president; Bernard Schlude, vice president; Smith, secretary; E. R. Sutherland, treasurer, and Norbert Gerend, assistant secretary.

Executive committee members are John Emmmerman, Thomas Bauer and Ambrose Mauel and officers.

Other action approved by the committee included a $600 donation to the March of Dimes, a $100 donation to the Easter Seal campaign and an amendment to the by-laws which will permit the president of the company to appoint a representative from retired employees as a director of the association. Money donated to the Easter Seal drive will be used to help send two Kaukauna residents to the camp for crippled children.

Senator Proposes Drugs On Market for Addicts

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — State Senator John J. Hollister has proposed a bill that would set up British-style clinics where drug addicts could purchase narcotics at cost and started on intensive treatment programs.

Hollister, a Democrat, said this would take the profit out of the trade and eliminate the high prices that cause addicts to rob to obtain purchase money.

Art Students at St. John Build, Furnish Model Homes

LITTLE CHUTE — Members of art class I at St. John High School completed a project using principles taught during the first semester. Sister Mary Siena, O.P., is the instructor.

Students designed homes, using their study of blueprints, color harmony, textures, architectural lines and areas and floor plans. Scale models of the homes were built.

Two weeks of class work were spent constructing furniture. The models were complete in miniature including garages, patios, porches and furnishings for each room. These furnishings were complete to draperies, lamps, planters and wall fixtures and pictures.

Materials Used

Materials used in construction included wood, cardboard, tile, mirrors, soap (carved for furniture), cloth, sample rugs, styrofoam, artificial flowers, wax, wire and celluloid. The four best will be kept for the spring art exhibition.

Some of the best models were

Priest to Speak On Communism At Breakfast

KAUKAUNA — The Rev. Albin V. Veszelovsky, O. Praem., a member of the religion department at St. Norbert College, will speak on "Communism and Catholicism" at a Knights of Columbus corporate communion breakfast after the 7 a. m. Sunday mass at Holy Cross Catholic Church.

Members will assemble in the school cafeteria after receiving communion in a body.

Father Veszelovsky was born and raised in Hungary, joined the Premonstratensian Order and was ordained in Hungary while Russia and Germany were at war.

While Father Veszelovsky was continuing studies in Rome, the order of which he was a member, was disbanded by Communist rulers. All properties of the order were seized by the government, and in 1948 Father Veszelovsky came to America and received his doctorate at Catholic University, Washington, D. C., in 1951.

Jack Roberts and Fred Schmidt are serving as program chairman.

To Your Good Health

Thickening of Skin on Feet Often Caused by Fit of Shoes

BY JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D. can evaluate the cause of your "Dear Dr. Molner: Why do the bottoms of my heels get rough, sore and crack open? I am 48—shoes, don't be stubborn about Mrs. D. W."

This sort of trouble is known as keratosis — which in plainer language means a thickening of the skin.

A tendency toward such thickening sometimes runs in families. In other cases it is due to a fault in the foot structure or foot care. Flat feet, a fault in the arch or other portion of the foot, wearing shoes that are too tight or are of a shape that puts too much pressure on some part of the foot are possible causes.

The skin thickens under the pressure, just as a callus will form under continued pressure. Let this thickening continue long enough, and the mere act of walking can start cracks in the skin. And then you have sore feet.

Your physician or chiropodist claims that it is a medicine

it. I mention this because, some human quirk, when we're told that our shoes are causing our feet to hurt, makes us insist that it must be something else.

If faulty foot structure is to blame, then special shoes, arch supports, or pads may be required.

And if it's essentially a matter of heredity, little can be done. Ointments containing salicylic acid and softening medications may bring relief.

Wheat Germ

"Dear Sir: What is your opinion on the food value of wheat germ? I have heard varied ones and would like to know an up-to-date professional view. — W. B. C."

Thanks for your kind remarks which I deleted. My view on wheat germ. That it is excellent in food value, but should be regarded as food and not as medicine. I am disturbed at extravagant claims that it is a medicine which will cure this, that or the other in total calories. It is high other thing. Nutritionally, however, in half a dozen useful vitamins ever, it is a bit higher than whole and minerals. Wheat germ is wheat flour in protein, but low good food, but not a cure-all.

Report Drop In Accidents At Thilmany

Days Lost Down From 2,031 to 1,024 in 1961

KAUKAUNA — Fifteen lost time accidents were reported at the Thilmany Pulp and Paper Company during 1960, a decrease of four from the 1959 figure, according to Clifford Kemp, safety director.

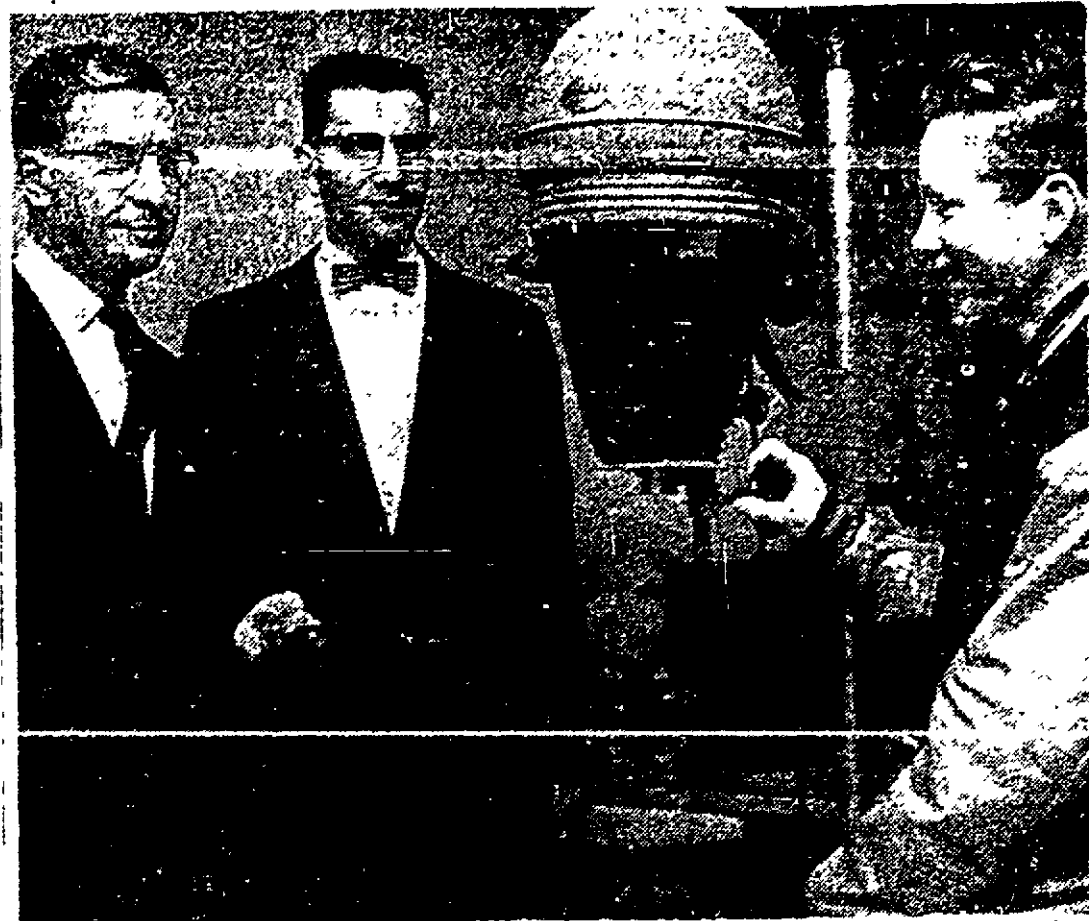

Days lost dropped from 2,031 in 1959 to 1,024 in 1960. Total number of doctor cases reported was 191 compared to 232 in 1959. This was a decrease of over 17 per cent in the number of cases needing doctor's attention.

An earlier report indicated accident frequency rate for the year was down, but final tabulation had not been completed, making it impossible to ascertain actual improvement.

Frequency Rate

The frequency rate, determined by relationship of number of injuries, man hours lost and man hours worked, declined from 5.93 in 1959 to 4.73 in 1960. Severity of injuries also decreased, noted Kemp. Ten accidents were reported at Mill No. 1 and five at Mill No. 2, one of the latter in the bag department.

partment, two major departments, continued their no lost time accident record during the year compiling an impressive record in view of the hazards to which men in these areas are exposed, said Kemp.

Through 1960 the Pulp Mill has gone two years and seven months without a disabling injury while the Asphalt Department has a record of two years and two months. Other departments continuing safety records during the year, said Kemp, were the painters and garage, both with 28 years and construction, electrical and sheet metal shops in Mill No. 1, all with nine years.

Mill No. 2 departments with good records include power, eight years; wet machines, six years; recovery, five years; sulphate maintenance, eight years; lower mill maintenance, seven years; construction crew, seven years; salvage, five years; store room, 19 years, and janitors and watchmen, five years.

Waive Hearing For Kaukauna on Water Treatment

Post-Crescent News Service

MADISON — The Wisconsin Public Service Commission has said that it will waive a hearing on the proposal of the City of Kaukauna public water utility to spend $85,215 to install iron removal equipment for the treatment of water from four of its municipal wells.

The commission is studying the proposal and will rule later on the application for a permit. The commission more than a year ago authorized iron removal equipment, for a well serving the north side of the community, which it said, has eliminated complaints from water users there. The additional said, equipment would be financed through a loan from the electric department which would be repaid from water reparation earnings.

Customers in the southern sections of the city have complained about the problem of iron stains. The city informed the state commission.

Instrument Landing Aid Going Up at Green Bay

ILS System to Allow Aircraft to Land At Austin Straubel in Bad Weather

GREEN BAY — Beginning early next summer, passengers headed for Austin Straubel field in the high intensity approach bad weather will have a 'better light' to arrive on extending 3,500 feet back from the runway, southwest end of the runway. A scheduled rather than waiting or, looking for other transportation sequence system to be added to in Detroit, Chicago, Minneapolis or Milwaukee.

The reason is six tons and about $60,000 worth of radio equipment which make up an instrument landing system (ILS) now being installed by a three-man crew from the Federal Aviation Agency headquarters at Kansas City, Mo. When the job is done in about 15 weeks, Straubel field will be the third Wisconsin airport with ILS. The others are Mitchell Field, Milwaukee, and Trux Field, Madison.

An instrument landing involves radio signals coming from two small red and white checked buildings located at opposite ends of the 5,200 foot northeast-southwest runway. Landing minimums will be cut in half. Lift Limits

Planes can not land now when the ceiling is below 400 feet or visibility is less than one mile. When ILS goes into use, planes will be able to land with minimum ceilings of 200 feet and visibility of one-half mile. "I think ILS will increase the reliability factor for arrivals here by at least 50 per cent," Robert Smith, manager of Straubel Field, said. Aside from the reliability factor, Smith said, ILS could result in a haven for an airplane in trouble since the system will help the plane get down regardless of visibility.

Also in the works at the field as part of a 1961 authorization will be the addition of high intensity lights along the sides of the runway. The high intensity approach lights are located on elevated bars from transmitters in the two small buildings send out a "glide path" and horizontal bearings as two separate signals which are recorded on a dial in the airplane cockpit. The dial has two needles, one from top to bottom and the other from side to side. When the two needles cross in the middle of the dial, the airplane is on course.

Exercise Uses Deposits In Calorie Bank Account

BY ALTON BLAKESLEE
Watching TV, the average adult burns up about 1¼ calories per minute. In two hours, he spends 150 calories, only 30 more than in two hours of sleeping.
A late-hour TV snack of food or drink can put it all back. And the 150 calories might represent just half of a luscious dessert.
Thus, the human calorie bank may acquire more "savings," resulting in creeping obesity, bane of millions of Americans.

Last of Series
In most cases, obesity is blamed simply upon consuming more calories than are expended.
If calories were money, most Americans would be rich — they bank more than they spend.
Eating just 50 extra calories a day — 350 in a week — in 10 weeks equals 3,500 calories, the number in one pound of body-weight. That little daily excess can put on five pounds in a year.

Plus, Minus Significant

But spending 50 extra calories each day could melt off five pounds in a year, without cutting down on calories now consumed in a week or year. The little pluses or minuses add up significantly over time, Dr. Herbert Pollack of New York City points out.

A 15-minute brisk walk spends 75 calories. And 75 calories equals one slice of apple pie; or 1½ ounces of a chilled martini; or ¾ ounce of cheese; one tablespoonful of heavy whipping cream; just one baking powder biscuit without butter; or six ounces of beer or a cola drink. It only makes a dent in the 400 calories of a chocolate sundae.
Spending more calories through regular, moderate exercise is being urged by many doctors and physiologists as a means of losing or maintaining weight, and as likely protection for your heart.

The assassin of inactivity, they believe, has as henchmen two common fallacies.
The myth we must all slack off and take it easy after 40.
The notion we can't lose weight through exercise.

Swing in Pendulum
Thirty years ago, doctors generally did advise taking it real easy after 40, but now the medical pendulum has swung to the belief that regular daily exercise suited to personal conditions — and not just the weekend athlete — is good medicine.

Indolence tends to add weight, and speed up degenerative diseases, if not take some fun out of life. Easy modern life with cars, labor-saving gadgets and mechanization makes planned activity and exercise all the more important.

"Most of us don't wear out — we rust out," says Dr. Theodore G. Klumpp of New York, a proponent of continued activity and exercise throughout life.

Hard work never hurt a healthy heart, and probably protects it, many authorities hold, including Dr. Paul Dudley White, a lean dynamo at 74, and a bicycling and hiking enthusiast who prescribed more exercise for his most famous patient, Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Not all students of heart disease are convinced exercise and fitness cut the risk of coronaries. But many point to evidence such as this:

1. Lower heart attack rates are found among men whose jobs require considerable physical labor, walking, or other movements, compared with those who sit at desks or have other non-action jobs.
2. Exercise can help control obesity, which boosts chances of heart attacks, high blood pressure, diabetes and perhaps other diseases.

Exercise, Cholesterol

3. There is suggestive evidence that exercise somehow helps reduce blood cholesterol levels.
4. Exercise can make a heart develop richer, stronger circulation. This could stand in good stead if a heart attack hits.
5. Exercise reduces tensions, making you less likely to explode at children, spouse or boss, and adds to endurance and ability to meet emergencies.

In 1850, human hands and muscles performed 30 per cent of all the work done in the United States.
In 1950, human muscles accounted for only 9-10th of 1 per cent of the nation's work. Mechanization, electricity, gasoline engines, and other sources of energy now allow far more chance for unspent calories.

Regular exercise can burn up calories without necessarily whetting the appetite.
"Many persons think exercise cannot help in losing weight, because they hear you must walk 35 miles to lose one pound," says one physician.

Exercise Adds Up

"But who is saying you must do it all in one day? Small daily increases in physical activity add up. If you gorge one day, you can wipe out the gain by increasing activity a bit more for a while."
Obesity can sneak up because as we age, we need fewer calories — each year about 10 less per day — to hold our weight.

"A young man eating 2,800 calories a day can gain 40 pounds in 40 years if he maintains that same intake and same activity," Dr. Pollack reports.

Most jobs today take less physical work than formerly. Indeed, most men's jobs "are a cinch compared with housework," remarks Dr. Herman K. Hellerstein of Cleveland.

The average housewife can spend 6 calories per minute while actually doing housework, but it is lower the more she uses machines and labor-saving devices. The average desk worker spends only 1.6 per minute; the factory worker about 2, and coal miners 4 plus, he finds.

Activity and calorie spending can vary, of course, in the same classification of job. A top executive may push buttons to summon lesser executives who come running on command.

Calories are units of energy or heat produced by oxidation or burning of food in the body. Calorie expenditure varies with individuals depending partly on age, weight (the heavier you are, the more you spend doing any given task), height, activity, and sex.

Protective Hormones

Women have far fewer heart attacks than men, at least through ages, 50 to 55. This is generally credited to some protective effect from female sex hormones. But after menopause or change of life, women become more vulnerable, presumably because their sex hormone production declines.

Their greater activity rearing children and running a busy household may have some slight protective effect, too. Many women become less active when children leave home, but may continue to eat just as much, and so put on weight.

As for spending calories, look to some figures from Dr. Pollack: Standing quietly, the average person burns about 9 more calories per hour than when sitting quietly. And the person who never stands still may burn 66 more calories more per hour than the relaxed stander.

Take a typist, 5-foot-3, weighing 120 pounds.
She uses 87.7 calories per hour working a standard mechanical typewriter, but only 72.7 with an electric typewriter — 15 less.

In six hours' work, she uses 90 calories less on the electrical machine — 450 a week, enough to equal one pound of weight in eight weeks.

An average man playing 18 holes of golf, walking four miles in three hours, spends 950 calories. Gardening for three hours, he spends 560.

Dancing for an hour, then sitting and talking for two hours, costs him 400. If he just sits for three hours, he spends 275. And he can easily cancel that out by swimming a fast crawl for five minutes, or working out on a rowing machine for 10.

walking briskly for 15 minutes, or swimming a fast crawl for five minutes, or working out on a rowing machine for 10.

Norman Clapp In Line for Federal Post

Lawrence Graduate Being Boomed for Agriculture Job

Post-Crescent News Service
MADISON — Norman Clapp, Lancaster, a veteran of the Wisconsin Democratic campaign wars, is being boomed for appointment as head of the rural electrification program in the U. S. agriculture department administration of Sec. Orville Freeman.

Democratic sources here report that Clapp is regarded as one of the leading contenders for the command of the huge federal lending program that supports cooperative generation and distribution of electrical power and has recently been authorized to finance rural telephone cooperatives also.

Made by Freeman

The appointment will be made by Freeman, but it is supposed that it will be cleared with the White House and President John F. Kennedy.

The president knows Clapp as the friendly but neutral agent of the state Democratic party organization when Kennedy campaigned in Wisconsin for convention delegate votes a year ago, and later as the Democratic nominee for congressman in the southwestern Wisconsin third district.

Clapp has made three tries for the congressional seat. Last November he lost the election to Rep. Vernon W. Thomson of Richland Center, the former governor.

High State Office

It is widely reported in the statehouse that Clapp will be named to a high state office, if Washington arrangements for his employment are not suitable.

Clapp grew up in Pierce County, graduated from high school in Appleton, and from Lawrence College there, and went to Washington as an aide to the late Sen. Robert M. La Follette Jr. Later he operated a weekly newspaper at Lancaster. He has the formidable backing of Chairman Patrick J. Lucey for an appointment in the new Democratic national administration, according to reliable accounts here.

Nelson Signs Contracts for New Armory

ers, three warrant officers and 211 enlisted men and now has 19 officers, three warrant officers and 145 enlisted men under the command of Capt. Joseph C. Borden.

Its mission is to provide command, staff, administration, communication, engineer supply and maintenance and medical support for the 2nd Battle Group.

The Combat Support Company's mission is to provide ground radar surveillance, reconnaissance, assault weapon and heavy mortar support for the battle group. Its authorized strength is 13 officers and 185 enlisted men and now has seven officers and 126 enlisted men under the command of Capt. Herbert L. Reif.

Activities of the National Guard here, including money paid for 48 drills and camp training for each of the two units, and the salaries of fulltime personnel, brought in more than $228,000 to Oshkosh during the last year.

C. of C. Committee

The armory construction resulted in efforts of the industrial development committee of the Oshkosh Chamber of Commerce dating back to August of 1958. Attending the signing of the contracts ceremony at Madison today were Leighton Hough, chairman, and Richard Rutledge of the industrial development committee, Conrad Ben Pitcher, executive vice president of the Oshkosh Chamber of Commerce, Lt. Col. Philip Jensen, 2nd Battle Group executive officer, Col. Milton Ziebell, who has retired as 32nd Division Brigade deputy commander, and Assemblyman William Steiger of Oshkosh.

Bids for the armory were opened Dec. 15, 1960, and are being awarded to Charles D. Smith and Son, Fond du Lac, general contractor; F. H. Peters, Omro, plumbing; R. Wenzel Co., Appleton, heating and ventilating; and D-K Electric, Oshkosh, electrical work. Contracting officer is Lt. Col. Edward S. Silvers of the Adjutant General's office at Madison.

The building will take about one year to complete and will include supply rooms, arms vaults, offices, staff rooms, rest rooms, lockers, staff rooms, rest rooms, lockers and drill floor. A large entrance will permit movement of vehicles in and out of the building.

Two Injured As Autos Crash

Car, Truck Damaged
In Accident
Near Oneida

Two drivers were hospitalized Wednesday afternoon after their cars collided at U.S. 41 and State 125.

Richard Gritton, 19, 1002 Park Ave., Little Chute, received a cut and possible fractured knee when his car ran into the side of one driven by William Bunk, route 4, West Bend.

County Police said Gritton was driving north on 41 when his auto struck the Bunk car as it crossed the highway from State 125.

A witness said the Bunk car stopped for the stop sign and then pulled into the path of the Gritton car, which was passing another car on the two-lane highway. The injured were taken to St. Elizabeth Hospital by Larry's ambulance, where they are in good condition.

Car, Truck Collide

A car and truck were seriously damaged in a collision at the intersection of State 54 and Brown County Trunk U near Oneida.

A car driven by Outagamie Sheriff's Lt. Jack Frenzli collided at 3:30 p.m. Tuesday with a truck driven by James C. Peeters, 22, route 1, Shiocton.

Frenzli said he had stopped a truck for a warning and left the shoulder of State 54 and was attempting to turn onto County Trunk U. His car struck the rear of a truck traveling in the opposite direction. Damage was estimated at $1,000 to the car and $400 to the truck.

Youths Injured as Auto Hits Tree

A 1961 car was demolished and two Appleton youths injured at 1:30 a.m. this morning when their car went out of control and struck a tree in the 1200 block of S. Mason Street.

The driver, Thomas Marx, 19, of 508 S. Story St., received face scratches and head and hand cuts in the accident. Tim Landers, 18, 1321 S. Mason St., a passenger, received head cuts and scratches on his hands. He was reported to be in shock.

Appleton police said the car skidded for about 120 feet before hitting the tree. The injured youths were taken to St. Elizabeth Hospital by Lindy's ambulance and hospital authorities report they are in fair condition.

Oshkosh Man Dies Of Crash Injuries

OSHKOSH (AP) — Arthur G. Trader, 81, of rural Oshkosh, died Wednesday night of injuries suffered Jan. 12 when he walked into the side of a moving car after checking the mail box across the road from his home. The mishap occurred on Highway 45-175 south of Oshkosh.

Vikings Pick Beck, Pesonen, Winslow

Packers Hire Former Virginia
Coach Voris as Personnel Scout

Post-Crescent News Service
GREEN BAY — The new Minnesota Vikings have purchased Ken Beck, Dick Pesonen and Paul Winslow from the Packers. And Richard (Dick) Voris, former football coach at the University of Virginia, has been named head personnel scout of the Packers.

These announcements were made today by Coach Vince Lombardi who is in New York attending the National Football League meeting.

Defense tackle Beck, offense back Winslow and defense back Pesonen were among eight names submitted for sale to Minnesota by the Packers in the league's program of stocking the Vikings with 36 veteran players. Names of the other five will not be revealed. Pesonen and Winslow were rookies in '60 and Beck has finished two pro seasons.

The Packers will receive approximately $15,000 for each of the players.

To Home State

Pesonen returns to his home state. A native of Proctor, Minn., he played at the University of Minnesota at Duluth. He made the Packers last year as a free agent, backing up Jess Whittenton and John Symank.

Winslow, an all-time star at North Carolina College, was the Packers' 13th choice in the '60 draft. He's exceptionally fast and carries good weight (205) but played little.

Beck was the fourth draft choice of the Cardinals in 1959 and came to Green Bay early in the '59 season in exchange for a 10th draft choice. Selected on many All-America teams, the former Texas A and M star backed up tackle and end in the Packers defensive line for the past two years.

All three players played on the platoons (kickoffs, punts, etc.) but none played regularly.

Voris, 38, fills some of the vacancy created by the death of Jack Vainisi, who served as business manager and chief talent scout.

The newcomer is a native of California and played high school football at Santa Cruz. He was graduated from San Jose College in 1948 after four years of service in the Marine Corps, including combat in the Pacific. He started coaching on the high school level and then moved on to Hartnell Junior College. He had a two-year winning streak going before joining the Los Angeles Rams as line coach in 1954. He went East in '55 and served three years under Coach Red Blaik with Army as line coach. He then went to Virginia to start a three-year term.

Voris is married and has three children—Richard Jr. 13, Susan 11, and Ronald, 9. He will come to Green Bay Feb. 1.

Job Attitude Rates High; Panel Agrees

school studying, printing, history, mathematics and English, was explained by Biggers. Boys are graded on this training and often advance in the plant in ratio to the marks, he explained. High school graduates proving dependable and showing initiative after two years on the job then are eligible for the apprenticeship program.

"It's one thing to get a job, another to keep it and be promoted," DuPont declared. Job qualifications are divided into possessing qualified skills and personal characteristics, he explained.

Blame Parents

Lack of characteristics including willingness to work harder, ability to follow orders and respect for others can be blamed on parents as well as teachers, he continued.

Women with specialized education don't fare too well in industry, the panel said.

"It's one thing to be bossed by a woman, at home, but a man doesn't want to have to be bossed by a woman on the job as well," a panelist added. Woman's primary obstacle in employment is her instability of tenure, they said.

Mother and 6 Sons Perish in New York Home

CENTRAL SQUARE, N.Y. (AP) — Coal gas killed an expectant mother and her six sons in their rural home near this northern New York community last night.

A furnace blower spread the gas through the home after a rusted furnace pipe fell off, sheriff's deputies said.

Carmen J. Vitello, 32, head of the family, was overcome but escaped. Vitello, an unemployed mechanic, also suffered shock and was incoherent when he sought aid at a neighbor's home. Asphyxiated were:

Mrs. Sarah Vitello, 26; Carmen Jr., 9; Michael, 8; Frank, 7; Harry, 6; Joseph, 4, and James, 2.

"The furnace pipe was pretty well rusted and had a lot of soot in it," Clyde Burt, chief of Central Square Volunteer Fire department said today. "It dropped right off."

The pipe connected the coal furnace with the chimney.

John Conways Obtain Divorce

A divorce has been granted in Circuit Court to Mrs. John Conway, 34, 1531 S. Lehman Lane, from John Conway, 36, 128 N. Oneida St.

Mrs. Conway charged cruel and inhuman treatment. The court approved a division of property and custody of the two minor children was granted to Mrs. Conway. No alimony was asked or granted.

The couple married in Appleton Dec. 30, 1953.

Veal Chops Crisp When Prepared By This Recipe

Veal chops get a crisp exterior when made according to this recipe.

A suggested menu with the chops includes mashed potatoes, snap beans with celery, stewed tomatoes, hot biscuits and Brownies or other cookies for dessert.

Veal Chops
6 veal chops
1 large egg
2 tablespoons milk
¾ teaspoon salt
Pepper
Flour and corn flake crumbs
3 tablespoons butter (about)
Sewer ends of chops, pinwheel fashion, with wooden food picks.
Beat egg with milk, salt and pepper to taste.

Dip chops, one at a time, in flour, egg mixture and corn flake crumbs. Cook chops in hot butter on both sides.

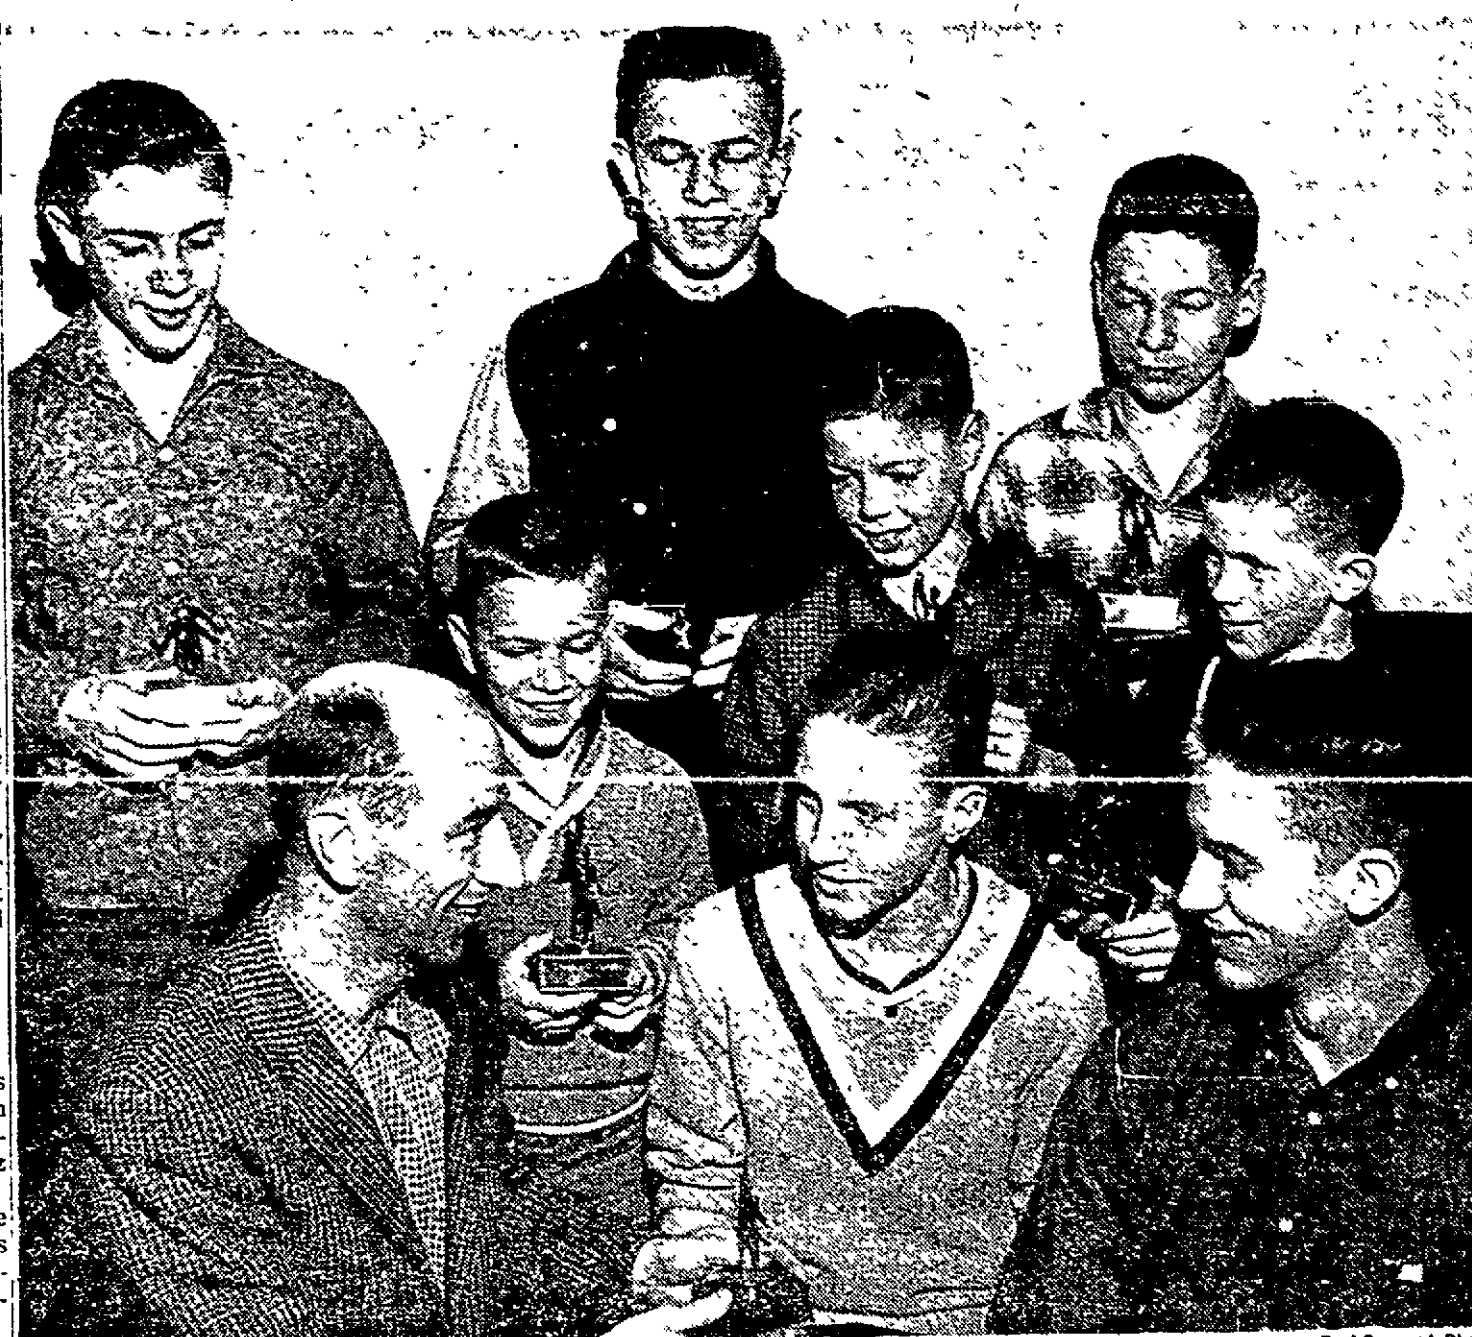

Cover skillet and cook slowly about 15 minutes. Remove cover and re-crisp chops, cooking about 10 minutes longer. Remove food picks before serving.

Marilyn Obtains Mexican Divorce

EL PASO, Tex. (AP)—Actress Marilyn Monroe won a Mexican divorce from Arthur Miller, playwright and novelist, at Suarez Tuesday.

The 34-year-old blonde, whose name has become synonymous with sex appeal, filed for the divorce Friday, charging incompatibility of character.

Court officials said the decree will not be valid until Thursday. Miller, 45, best known for his play "Death of a Salesman," was Miss Monroe's third husband. She was his second wife. They were married in 1956 and separated last year.

Reds to Use More Science In Farming

Khrushchev's Plan For Reorganization Will be Followed

MOSCOW (AP) — The central committee of the Soviet communist party has approved Premier Khrushchev's call for a major reorganization of the management of the nation's vast farming program, with increased emphasis on scientific methods.

As a start, the committee called for a new plan for irrigating millions of acres of farmland in hopes of offsetting setbacks from bad weather and bad management.

The committee declared in a resolution that "big shortcomings and mistakes in leadership of agriculture were made" with the result that production fell in some instances below the minimum schedules set in the seven-year plan with which Russia hopes to overtake U.S. per capita production.

Juggle Figures

The resolution reflected Khrushchev's blasts during the committee sessions at farm leaders, whom he accused of juggling figures to conceal deficiencies and inventing excuses. The Soviet premier charged the culprits with deceiving the state and demanded that they be ousted from the party and brought to trial.

The committee resolution called for a sweeping reorganization of the agriculture ministry and declared it should concentrate on improving the work done by research institutions. The government already has replaced Agriculture Minister Vladimir Matskevich by Alexander Olshevsky, a leading agricultural scientist.

To solve machinery problems of state and collective farms, the party committee authorized establishment of a special government agency to act as intermediary between the farm machinery industry and the farms. The

Claims Epidemics of Polio Wiped Out of Soviet Union

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet scientist who directed a two-year polio vaccination program using a live virus technique developed by an American said Tuesday he is "convinced that polio epidemics have been wiped out in the Soviet Union."

Prof. Mikhail Chumakov said that in 1960 alone 77 million Soviet citizens were immunized with the technique developed by Dr. Albert Sabin of Cincinnati, Ohio. Tass, the Soviet news agency reported.

Medical opinion in the United States is divided over the relative merits of Sabin's technique and that of Dr. Jonas Salk, who pioneered use of a dead virus. The U.S. Public Health Service did not approve general use of live virus until last August, and Surgeon General Leroy Burney said it would not be available until the fall of this year.

"It is paradoxical," Chumakov said, "that in Prof. Sabin's own country there are stronger opponents of his vaccine than in the U.S.S.R."

Chumakov said all Soviet citizens between the ages of two months and 20 years will be vaccinated again this year to combat sporadic polio outbreaks.

Systematic immunization "Broad, repeated vaccination of the population and systematic immunization of all new babies will be required for several years to combat sporadic individual cases," he added.

He said the Soviet Union also will continue to manufacture live vaccine for export to nations allied with Russia, including Red China and North Korea. Enough vaccine to immunize 13 million persons was exported in 1960, he particularly fell below the target, said.

Church of Christ Adopts Budget, Elects Board

KAUKAUNA—Members of Immanuel United Church of Christ elected board members and approved a budget of $27,000 for 1961 at the annual meeting.

The budget includes current expenses, benevolences and building fund items. Members voted that the church would no longer publish a list of contributions made by individuals.

Named to 3-year terms on the church council were Mrs. John Vandenberg Jr., Mrs. John Hillgenberg, Carl Heilmann and Lester Abel. Arthur Wyro was elected to a 3-year term on the cemetery board.

Council members elected Lester

Abel, president; Marvin Trettin, vice president; and Mrs. John Vandenberg Jr., financial secretary. Re-elected were Miss Lucille Haass, secretary, and Howard Paschen, treasurer.

Stolen Car Left by Woman in a Hurry

A car reported stolen from the Soldiers Square parking area Tuesday afternoon was found by Appleton police behind a service station at S. Oneida and E. Lawrence Streets.

Clark Wiese, 708 Fifth St., Menasha, told police his car was taken between 1:30 and 3 p.m. As attendant at the service station said a woman in a hurry had left it there.

Kennedy Style New In American Politics

President's Vigor Compared to That When Theodore Roosevelt Took Over

BY JOSEPH ALSOP

WASHINGTON — It was the night of the "inaugural snow storm", as the weathermen are wont to call it, that the new President, John F. Kennedy, made his entrance, so the whole vast room was watching. From one end of the balcony to the other, there were people in the boxes whom Kennedy wished to welcome, but the crowd made the passageways absolutely impassable.

Easy Agility

Quite unconcerned, the new President of the United States began leaping from box to box with the easy agility of a mountain goat. It was a creditable performance for a man of forty-three. But what made this scene memorable were the expressions of absolute horror, of open consternation, on the faces of the secret service men, who were by no means used to imitating mountain goats yet were forced to follow their charge as best they could.

These memories of the inaugural week in Washington, in themselves trifling, also help to make a point which is not trifling. The point is that the new President and his new administration have a style of their own, quite new in American politics, which will delight some people, annoy other people, and astonish just about everyone until its style becomes familiar.

All American administrations have their own styles, which are almost invariably set by the President. Consider for instance the vast change of style that occurred when the infinitely staid William McKinley died, and Theodore Roosevelt took over the White House.

Into the white darkness of the street, the young man supported, all but carried the old man, sustaining him not just with a strong shoulder and a strong arm, but also with the strength of his reverent affection. It was a scene to remember, if only because it was so wonderfully unlike the customary scenes of political Washington.

The backdrop of scene two was equally dramatic—the wide balcony jam-packed with grandees' boxes at the inaugural ball in the armory. John F. Kennedy and his beautiful young wife had just made their entrance, so the whole vast room was watching. From one end of the balcony to the other, there were people in the boxes whom Kennedy wished to welcome, but the crowd made the passageways absolutely impassable.

Easy Agility

Quite unconcerned, the new President of the United States began leaping from box to box with the easy agility of a mountain goat. It was a creditable performance for a man of forty-three. But what made this scene memorable were the expressions of absolute horror, of open consternation, on the faces of the secret service men, who were by no means used to imitating mountain goats yet were forced to follow their charge as best they could.

These memories of the inaugural week in Washington, in themselves trifling, also help to make a point which is not trifling. The point is that the new President and his new administration have a style of their own, quite new in American politics, which will delight some people, annoy other people, and astonish just about everyone until its style becomes familiar.

All American administrations have their own styles, which are almost invariably set by the President. Consider for instance the vast change of style that occurred when the infinitely staid William McKinley died, and Theodore Roosevelt took over the White House.

The chief ingredients of the first Roosevelt's style were his boldness, his strong historic imagination, his picturesquely strenuous way of life, his liking for the company of thinkers and learned men and, of course, his teeth and his eyeglasses. And that style, contributed, in an indirect but not inconsiderable way, to the chief event of the first Roosevelt Administration, which was America's coming of age as a great power. He behaved like the leader of a great power, and quite suddenly we saw ourselves as a great power and the world saw us that way, too.

The Kennedy style, if one may hazard a guess, will be nearer to the first Roosevelt's style than to any other White House style of the past. At any rate, Kennedy oddly resembles the first Roosevelt in at least one infinitely revealing way. He is snobbish about the same things, which make an odd but not unimpressive list.

Like TR, he is a physical fitness-snob. All Kennedys have this singular trait, like TR, he is also a courage-snob. It is not customary, any longer, to give much weight to whether another man has "had a good war", as the British put it. But this weighs with Kennedy as it weighed with the first Roosevelt, whose example inspired his oldest son to win the Medal of Honor on the blood-drenched Normandy beaches.

Finally, Kennedy once again resembles TR in being an experience-snob—in wanting what he does and what happens to him to be vivid, intense and, above all, meaningful, rather than cozy and average and humdrum. The instinct that drove Theodore Roosevelt to undertake his last journey to the sources of the Amazon, which killed him, is also quite visibly present in Kennedy.

Why Roosevelt had these three kinds of snobism, why Kennedy now has them, is an interesting subject of speculation. They were not common elements in average American success stories, even in TR's time, and they most certainly are not common elements in our success stories of today. In TR's case, they gave the man a personal style so singular, so unaccustomed that the whole country goggled—and was then delighted. But one must wait and see what they will do in Kennedy's case. Whatever, the result, it should at least be interesting. (Copyright, 1961)

Dedication Week!

On Thursday, Jan. 19th Public Officials and Press Representatives Attended the Formal Dedication of Our New Ultra-Modern, Government Inspected Meat Warehouse in Suburban Milwaukee.

They found that everything about A&P's mammoth new distribution center is designed with this important purpose foremost in mind: to bring A&P customers a plentiful supply of the best quality meats at the lowest possible prices. This modern Plant (which is U. S. Government inspected) is just another example of A&P's concept of public service: to provide more good foods to more people for less money.

Spilski, Zussman Fire U. S. Honor Sets

'Mendy' Hits Top Series Of Career

The Appleton men's bowling season, which went almost 4½ months without a national honor count, now has two within two days.

Mendy "Mendy" Zussman, a southpaw bowler, polished off an even 700 three-some in Hahn's Fraternal League Wednesday night. Tuesday, Orv Strutz, a 701 in Hahn's Major League.

Zussman, proprietor of Zussman's Grocery, 1016 E. Pacific St., had to finish up with nine straight strikes Wednesday to attain national honor status right on the button. His games, for the first place Odd Fellows No. 2 team (39-21), were: 216, 227 and 257.

His Best Season

The 44-year-old veteran of 18 years of bowling is in the midst of his best season. He carries plus-190 averages in two weekly leagues—the Builders League on Monday (about 197) and the Fraternal League (195). In the Grosers' wheel on Thursdays he's stroking about 172.

Zussman's best previous series was a 661 thumped last Sept. 19 in the Builders League. The top game he ever swatted was a 266 several years ago.

Zussman is the younger brother of John "Jake" Zussman, Milwaukee recreation department director, who was honored Sunday night as the man of the year in Milwaukee baseball.

Also over the 600 mark in the Fraternal League Monday was Dick Fellner, 225, 610.

John Driessen thumped a 609 for laurels in the 41 Bowl's Merchants League. One of his games for Big Shoe Store was a 232.

Home Furniture (33-23½) leads by a half game.

The top threesome in Hahn's Industrial League was John Plach's 601 for Coated Paper.

Frank Sanders smacked a 235 for Knoke's and finished with a 585 Offensteins (43-20) leads by a half game.

Other honor scores:

FRATERNAL: Don Hartz, 589; Bob Oellerich, 574; Don Beyer, 572; Ed Breitenross, 571; Irv Roberts, 570; C. Enike, 568; Don Schoenfeldt, 568.

MERCHANTS: Bob Oellerich, 566; Leo Wahl, 557; Jim Ben, 550; Bernie Stumbras, 547; Joe Theisen, 539; Hank Beyerdorf, 533.

INDUSTRIAL: Dick Jabas, 587; Herb Simon, 581; Gene Vanden Heuvel, 574; Wally Winters, 572; Norm Schabow, 573; Fritz Kirk, 551.

Leafs Defeat Montreal, 5-3

Mahovich Scores Twice as Toronto Nears NHL Lead

The Montreal Canadiens have discovered that you can't hold a player like Frank Mahovich in check forever.

Anxious to preserve National Hockey League records established by teammates of present and bygone eras—particularly retired Maurice Richard's 50-goal mark in one season—the Canadiens have managed to contain the 23-year-old Toronto wingman all season.

But Wednesday night, Mahovich scored twice as the Maple Leafs downed the Canadiens 5-3 and moved within two points of the league leaders. The goals were Mahovich's 38th and 39th in 47 games and enabled him to set a record for the highest single season scorer in Toronto history.

In the only other game, Johnny Wilson scored a third period goal and goalie Gump Worsley turned in another outstanding performance to lead the revived New York Rangers to a 2-1 decision over the Boston Bruins.

Surprisingly enough, the 'Cats started with a rush that gave false promise of things to come, wheeling to a 2-0 lead on a pair of "strikes" by mercurial George Mylenchuk with only 6.43 gone in the opening period.

Any budding hopes of a romp shortly evaporated, however, as the proud NHL champions rebounded to tie the score at 16:03 and trigger a memorable dogfight that left more than a few tilted customers in a state of shock.

Outlook Bleak

The first period ended in a 3-3 knot but the outlook was bleak after the Saints swept to a 5-3 lead early in the second period. Jerry Krouk and ex-Montreal Canadian Paul Massnick doing the honors.

The faithful took new heart late in the period when Toole Kavun, set up by linemate Mylenchuk, whistled a 30-footer screen-net set for the University of ed shot past Sheehan, chopping Wisconsin fieldhouse Feb. 24-25.

14-Year-Old Takes Lead in National Figure Skating Meet

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP)—Pelle Utermoehlen of toward the over-all scoring in this New York City employs her forte competition. Each skater is allotted tonight in the free skating program five minutes tonight in a gram in an effort to win the first free skating program that counts title of the 1961 National Figure Skating Championships.

The 14-year-old miss took a lead of Buffalo, N.Y., drew only one commanding lead in the novice first-place ballot from the five ladies competition while a three-judges in his required figures but way race developed in the men's class.

Miss Utermoehlen gave a peerless performance, Wednesday in the four required figures.

Joe Wallops 716 Triple In Neenah

NEENAH — Joe Spilski splashed the second national honor count of the season in the Twin Cities, Wednesday night, in Fox Valley Classic League action at Lake Road Lanes.

Spilski spilled games of 235, 245, and 236, for a 716 trio. (Rocky) Monty rolled a 760 count earlier this season.

Spilski, one of the Fox Cities' top bowlers, has recorded nearly a dozen national honor counts in his career.

Hits 574 Trio

In other Lakewood action, Marion Hedberg leading the More Fun circuit with a 574 trio. She rolled games of 201 and 203.

Dorothy Kuske had a 190 to pace the Hi Neighbor loop and Dick Metzger fired a 361 to top the Sportsman's League. Hanson Insurance tops the team standings with a 44-13 record.

Don Christensen tallied a 587 to pace the Commercial league at Muench's. Ursula Krambs fired a 222 and 551 to pace the Neenah Women's circuit at the same establishment.

Clancy Braun and Al Fuhs shared honors in the Businessmen's League at Mid-Town. Both had a 234 and Braun finished action with a 610 set. Lang's Pharmacy leads with a 46-17.

Don Kruschke notched a 232, and Lee Holcombe fired a 642 to lead the Mid-Town Uptown Commercial wheel. Elmer's and W-W Bar are deadlocked for the league lead with 38-25 records.

Waller Sues LA Chargers For $23,300

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Halfback Ron Waller sued the Los Angeles Chargers for $23,300 today.

He said that amount is due him under his 1960 and 1961 contract, although he never played for the American Football League club.

Waller, once a star for the Los Angeles Rams of the National Football League, said he was to receive $12,000 from the Chargers in 1960 and $15,000 for 1961.

He said he suffered a leg injury last Aug. 17 but the club fired him Sept. 28 instead of using him for promotion and publicity as his contract provided. At that time, he said, he had been paid only 1,700.

Bluejays Will Seek To Reverse December Loss to Rocket '5'

Rivals to Meet for 85th Time; Diedrich Replaces Fahrenkrug on Neenah Roster

BY RALPH MUELLER
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

NEENASHA — Will revenge and the addition of John Matowitz be enough to make up the seven-point deficit the Menasha Bluejays suffered from when they lost to Neenah, 58-51, early in December?

That question will be answered Friday night when Menasha and Neenah renew their rivalry for the 85th time in the Menasha High School gymnasium. Tip-off time is 8:15 p.m.

Neenah surprised the Jays in their first meeting this season when it caught fire in the second period. Paul Felton, the Mid-Eastern Conference scoring leader, fired in 25 points to pace the victory. Bill Prange led Menasha with 15.

Coach Clem Massey believes that both teams have improved since that first clash but slated that he thinks his Bluejays have improved more. "We'll know more about that after Friday night's game," said the young mentor.

Polish Defense

The Jays spent the early part of the week sharpening up their fast break and polishing their defense. Massey declared he was pleased at the way the squad performed in their pair of victories last weekend.

John Matowitz, 6-foot senior guard, has been given a lot of the credit for the recent Menasha victories. Since returning to action, following the mending of his fractured elbow, "Matty" has scored 45 points in four victories. He had 15 markers in each of the two weekend games.

Neenah Coach Ole Jorgensen, in his usual quiet way, pointed out that his team still has the toughest part of the schedule to play. "We still have four road games," he said, when questioned about his team's chances of winding up on top of the pack.

One Change

The veteran tutor announced one change in his 12-player roster. Dick Diedrich, a junior, has been advanced from the jayvee unit to the varsity. Bill Fahrenkrug, senior guard, has decided to give up the game for the remainder of the season.

The two teams have met 67 times in conference play and their paths have crossed another 17 times in post-season tournament activity. The Rockets hold an edge in both categories, 41-26 in league action, and 11-6 in tourney competition.

The starting lineup for Menasha will be Bill Ritchie and Dave Ristau at the forwards, Tom Steinmetz at center, and Bill Prange and Matowitz at the guards.

Neenah will start Jim Sauby, Felton, and Dave Burton on the front line, and Doug Ankerson and Dave Neubauer, the highest-scoring sophomore in the M-E, at the backcourt positions.

Tokyo — Heruo Sakamoto, 122, Japan, outpointed Arab Junior, 120, Philippines, 15 (for Orient junior featherweight title).

St. John Amateur Cage Tournament Will Open Friday

Class B, Church-Industrial Defending Champions Return

MENASHA — The St. John Amateur Basketball Tournament will get underway Friday night in the St. John gymnasium, with three games in the Church - Industrial Division. Action in Class B will begin Saturday and Class A Squads open play Sunday afternoon.

Eight teams are entered in Class A. Their rosters are dotted with the names of former area and state college and high school stars.

Pond's, of Appleton, is the defending Class A champion but is not entered in this year's meet.

Both the Class B champion, Joget under way Friday night in the St. John gymnasium, with three games in the Church - Industrial Division. Action in Class B will begin Saturday and Class A Squads open play Sunday afternoon.

Abel, Dibelius

Some of the outstanding area stars listed on the St. John roster are Ron Dibelius, Earl Furlow, Ron Abel, Jim Kersten, Greg Ropella, and Jerry Koslowski.

The Bleier's Bar unit, of Appleton, includes Bud Kramer while Reliance Printer's, of DePere has such former St. Norbert College stars as Romie Kosnar, Bill Feller, and Gary Herold.

Former University of Wisconsin players, Fred Clow, Dave Mills, and Bob Rossin will enter with Eggimann Motors of Madison. Another former UW player, Dave Teller, is on the Reliance Printer roster.

A Madison YMCA unit is entered under the sponsorship of Tony's Bar, of Menasha. The roster includes the name of Phil North, former Madison Edgewood star.

The rosters of the Church-Industrial loop and the Class B teams are equally solid. One of the more glittering examples is the Jitter's and Joe's squad from Menasha.

Schmidt, Meyer They include such players as Fred Schmidt, Jim Meyer, Tom Malchow, and Skip Schuerer. The Hortonville city team will feature such stars as Bob Brothm, Larry Collar, and Dennis Sommers. The Ripon Flat Taps boast Kermit "Doc" Weiske, the former Ripon College great, and present Ripon coach.

The co-directors of the tournament are Kenney Barker and Father Frank Mintjal, of St. John.

Coated Paper, Post Office Retain Co-Lead

Vocational School Tops Elm Tree in Overtime, 54-45

Coated Paper and the Post Office both recorded their tenth victories of the season in the Industrial Basketball League Wednesday night.

The Vocational School remained in the running for the league crown with a 54-45 overtime win over Elm Tree. Coated Paper defeated AAL, 55-48; the Post Office beat Hoffman Co., 55-50 and Headquarters defeated the Police, 72-58.

Dick Watson's 12 field goals paced Coated Paper. The winners led all the way after taking a 19-14 first period lead.

Comes From Behind The Post Office had to come from behind for the win over a stubborn Hoffman team. The losers grabbed a 17-13 first period edge and held a 35-30 advantage at the intermission.

The Post Office sliced the lead with an 11-8 third-period edge, then went out in front with 14 in the final stanza while holding Hoffman's to seven. Bill Geenen had 25 markers for the Post Office, while Joe Grow hit 19 for the losers.

Dave Neubauer hit three field goals in the overtime period to lead the Vocational School over Elm Tree.

Dick Verkuilen had 20 markers for Elm Tree, and Neubauer had a similar total for the winners.

Don Otto exploded for 36 points as Headquarters rolled over the Police. Phil Condu had 24 points for the Police.

Says Good Amateur Runners Can Earn $10,000 a Year Undercover

Agostini, Former Olympic Athlete, Writes 'Confession'

NEW YORK (AP)—A former Olympic athlete says a good amateur runner can earn $10,000 a year by accepting undercover payments.

Amateurism in athletics is a sham, with officials not only condoning, but even encouraging illegal expense accounts in some instances.

Mike Agostini said in a so-called confession written for Sports Illustrated.

"In putting down my experience, drawing attention to the rackets that are really designs for living forced by outmoded rules, perhaps I shall be able to draw attention to the farcial situations caused by applying ancient rules to modern requirements," he added.

Milers Get $1,000 Agostini, who competed for Trinidad in the 100-meter dash in the 1956 Olympic games at Melbourne, said in indoor meets a sprinter may get from $50 to $125 an appearance, middle distance men $100 to $500 and milers as much as $1,000.

The $10,000 a year for an amateur track athlete is possible in Europe, he said, with Scandinavian via a particularly happy hunting ground.

Agostini, who attended Villanova and Fresno State but now is a resident of London, told of illegal fees he received for running against Armin Hary of West Germany, the Olympic sprint champion, now under investigation for expense account abuses.

$40 to Spend Agostini said he was just 17 in 1932 when in a post-Olympic meet, an official handed him $40 for spending money. "I was hesitant to accept it," he said, "but he was an official and I presumed he must have known what he was about."

The sprinter said an Amateur Athletic Association official told him:

"Mike, see as much as you can, travel as much as you can, run as often as you can, make as much as you can—but, for God's sake, don't get caught, old chap, for it is my job, you know, and I must come after you if you do."

Crow Signs '61 Contract For $22,500

ST. LOUIS (AP)—John David Crow, 25-year-old halfback who led the National Football League last season in most yards rushing in one game and in average gain per carry, signed his 1961 contract with the St. Louis Cardinals today for a reported $22,500.

Crow piled up 203 yards against the Pittsburgh Steelers in the final game last year for a season high. He finished the campaign with a league leading average of 5.9 yards per carry.

He wound up third in the NFL in rushing, behind Jim Brown of the Cleveland Browns and Jim Taylor of the Green Bay Packers, both of whom carried the ball more times. Crow gained 1,071 yards on 183 carries; Brown, 1,251 on 215 attempts and Taylor, 1,101 on 230 tries.

Rotary Club Outbowl's Lions In Kaukauna

KAUKAUNA — The Kaukauna Rotarians took a 9-8 lead in its bowling series with the Lions Club by downing the losers, 8,294, 8,182, at the Bowling Bar.

The Rotarians built up a lead of 238 in the opening game. The Lions picked up 90 pins in the second game and 36 in the third.

Rotary team No. 1 had a high game of 894 and a series of 2,594 while the Lions' No. 1 unit rolled 918 and 2,620.

The top individual series was 587 by Henry Siebers, of the Lions. Les Smith, of the Rotarians, had the high individual game of 219. Smith finished with a 582 series.

Vic Haen finished with 546 for the Lions while Carl Ploetz (550), Mark Nagan (549) hit other leading Rotarian counts.

'Nita' Kiesow Bowls 503 in Lucky League

"Nita" Kiesow's 503 for Fred's TV took honors in the Lucky League at the ACA earlier this week. One of her games for the first place club (35-16) was a 200.

Vi Miller's shares first place.

game. But, Emanuel felt his club lost the game on its own.

"We deserved to lose, the way we played," he observed. "We got several big leads and then relaxed. Our kids were due to lose, but it hurts when it comes."

Emanuel anticipates no lineup changes for the Manitowoc game. "But, if we play again as we did last Friday there'll be some," he remarks.

Opening in the forecourt will be Dick Rankin, Marty Schultz and Jerry Gendron. They rank sixth, ninth and nineteenth, respectively, in current circuit scoring. The guards will be Pete Treiber — the loop's No. 7 pointmaker — and Jeff Martin.

Treiber was held to three points by good defense at West.

Schultz has been bothered by a pulled hamstring muscle. It is hoped he can play without tape on the injury Friday. His play has been hampered by the affliction.

Still in Splint

The finger which Jerry Gendron broke Dec. 9 at Fond du Lac is still in a splint.

One of AHS' biggest chores Friday will be slowing the Shipbuilders' 6-5 all-state center, Paul Meany. Due to crack the 1,000 mark in career scoring Friday (he's three points away), Meany is averaging 18.3 tallies in conference games. He ranks third in loop scoring — behind North's Chuck Hubregtse and Fond du Lac's Al Esther — in defense of his championship.

Guard Al Zipperer, a second-team all-FRVV choice last season, hit 16 against the Terrors in the first game, as did Meany.

Twelfth Best

He's twelfth in league pointmaking with an 11.1 average. His running-mate at guard, Tom Pollock, is averaging 9.9, and is sixteenth. Forward Paul Beuge, is eighteenth, at 9.0. Bob Savage and Dave Wagner are other forecourt-ers.

Emanuel is optimistic about Friday's contest. "Manitowoc is probably as good a team as there is in the state," he observes. "But, if we play the kind of ball we're capable of, we can win. It all depends on what our reaction is to the loss at West."

The Ships have the circuit's best offensive and defensive record. They have been averaging 64.0 in loop games, while allowing 48.6. The Terrors are runnersup in both departments, with marks of 62.7 and 55.8.

Pulling for an Appleton victory at Manitowoc to keep their slim title hopes alive, Green Bay West's Wildcats visit Sheboygan South Friday night. Sheboygan North is at Green Bay East, and Oshkosh visits Fond du Lac.

Dick Kazmaier Declares Ivy League Football Isn't What It Used to be

Former Princeton Star President of Bowling Chain

NEW YORK (AP)—The top Ivy League football player of a decade ago thinks Ivy League football isn't what it used to be in his day—just like any old grad, and Mayo Smith, former Cincinnati and Philadelphia baseball manager.

But when Dick Kazmaier says that, you have to listen. It was only a decade ago that he twice won All-America honors playing for Princeton as an offensive halfback in the platoon days. He's a keen, intelligent observer, and has been most of the past 10 years he has been close enough to the Ivy League scene to see what's happening.

In 1959 Ivy experts voted him the league player of the decade. Dick returned to the sports

Providence Gets Past Canisius Quint, 67-64

12th Win in 14 Games for Friars; Louisville Trips Kentucky Wesleyan

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Looks like the win-em-close Providence Friars are odds-on to get another chance to whip that Madison Square Garden jinx that stands as the only obstacle between them and one of the tidest winning streaks around in college basketball.

The Friars, who get a big and little boost from 6-10 Jimmy Hadnot and 6-footer Johnny Egan, beat Canisius 67-64 Wednesday night for their fifth straight victory and 12th in 14 games this season.

Chisox Gamble On Rookie at Third Base

Joe Martin Has Topped .300 Just Once in Minors

NEW YORK (AP)—Joe Martin, a rookie third baseman who has topped the .300 mark only once in five minor league seasons, represents probably the biggest gamble taken by Al Lopez since he became manager of the Chicago White Sox in 1957.

Lopez has installed Martin as the team's regular third baseman for 1961.

"I haven't the slightest doubt that Martin can do the job," Lopez said. "He's an aggressive fellow. Hollis Thurston, our top scout, rated the kid the best defensive third baseman in the Pacific Coast League last year with San Diego."

Martin batted .285 last season, hit 13 home runs and drove in 73. His best year was in 1958 when he batted .330 for Duluth-Superior in the Northern League. The next year he hit .287 at Indianapolis.

Highly Regarded

Two other highly regarded youngsters are outfielders Stan Johnson and Floyd Robinson. Johnson, 23, was the Pacific Coast League's second best hitter at .333.

Robinson, who was brought up near the end of last year, batted .318 at San Diego. Dean Look, former Michigan State football star, is another rookie outfielder. He comes up after hitting .285 at Lincoln in his first year of professional ball.

The most promising of the new pitchers is Gary Peters, a 23-year-old left-hander. He won 12 and lost 9 at San Diego.

Camilo Carreon, a 23-year-old catcher, is counted on to win a job. A .279 hitter at San Diego, he may be converted into a first baseman.

'It's Sickening,' Charges Agase

Says U. S. Grid Clubs Smear Canadian Ball

TORONTO (AP)—A smear campaign to keep United States college players out of Canadian professional football is being conducted by U.S. professional clubs, Toronto Argonauts coach Lou Agase said Wednesday night.

"It's sickening," he said, "to hear the stuff they're telling those kids to keep them away from Canadian teams." Agase made the comment on his return from several months on the U.S. college circuit scouting for the Big Four team.

He said the tour resulted in the signing of 13 new imports.

"But we can't name them for two reasons," he said. "Some of them have eligibility in spring sports and others are at school on scholarships which would be withdrawn if it's known they're signing up professionally."

Agase described his conversation with Larry Wood, a defensive end at Northwestern

Casper Fires '5-Under' 66

Billy, Partner Tie For San Francisco Pro-Am Honors

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Golf's professionals battled a wet Harding Park course today in the first round of the $57,000 San Francisco International Open tournament—a surprise since Northern California has experienced its driest winter since 1897.

Drenched golfers could hardly believe it as a storm blew in for Wednesday's pro-amateur preliminary. The rain was expected to continue, as the pros battle for the $9,000 first prize in the 72-hole event.

Billy Casper fired a 5-under-par 66, proving it can be done over this 6,672-yard municipal course with its par 36-35-71.

Each Shot 68

Gary Player of South Africa and Bert Weaver of Daytona Beach, Fla., each had 68 in the pro-amateur firing. Bob Rosburg, winner of last week's Bing Crosby event, had a 70. Ken Venturi and Arnold Palmer were among those carding even-par 71's.

Casper teamed with Tom Dixon, former Harding Park champion, to tie for top honors in the pro-am team. They had a best-ball 61 as did Bob Goetz, Tulsa, Okla., pro, and John Woodson, Fairfax, Calif., amateur.

Strike Showed Use of Strong Joint Action

BY VICTOR RIESEL

NEW YORK — No greater courage has any man than he who aspires to be President of the United States, yet writes his own speeches. Blend such courage with anger and you have Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller on the blizz ardy night of Jan. 19, as he turned to guests at an unreported dinner in the Waldorf. Around him were leaders of industry and labor and some of his own cabinet. The guests, aware that they would be marooned by icebound aircraft and strike-bound trains and vessels, heard him speak from his own penciled notes.

Referring to the "sailors' strike which paralyzed most of the eastern rail system, he asserted:

"What is happening here (in this strike) is an abuse of freedom."

"Such a stoppage," he said, "must not occur again and again." He would fight them. Most of the audience cheered. Only the labor men didn't.

Talked Peace

The governor apologized for leaving the banquet (a building trades dinner) early. At 9:30 p.m. he was due at a strike "peace" conference. At 4 a.m. he was still talking peace with sailors, teamsters and railroaders to settle a walkout which was costing over $20 million a day. The strike leaders, of course, settled only at the request of their friend, Labor Secretary Arthur Goldberg.

The significance of this first strike of the Kennedy administration, went little noticed across the country. There was much more here than a walkout led by the Seafarers International Union to save the jobs of 63 men aboard railroad-owned harbor tugs.

This strike was called by Seafarers' Chief Paul Hall, a blondish, big man who is a scientist in the use of "joint action." He said he was of the opinion that "when Paul goes, he goes all the way." Note well this joint action. It is the theme of things to come on the labor front.

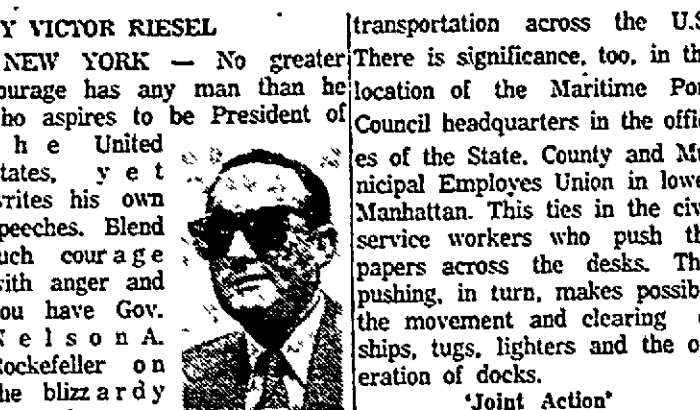

Long before the venture some Paul Hall struck a few tugs in New York harbor, he created something called the Maritime Port Council of Greater New York Harbor and vicinity.

Soon there will be 40 powerful unions in it. Already signed up are sailors, oilers, marine engineers, longshoremen, teamsters, carpenters, boilermakers, office workers, city employees and operating engineers.

Soon the operating trainmen brotherhoods will join. They are the men who can shut down rail transportation across the U.S. There is significance, too, in the location of the Maritime Port Council headquarters in the offices of the State, County and Municipal Employees Union in lower Manhattan. This ties in the civil service workers who push the papers across the desks. This pushing, in turn, makes possible the movement and clearing of ships, tugs, lighters and the operation of docks.

Inside Labor

'Joint Action'

Council President Anthony Scott is a colleague of Tony Anasiasio, leader of some 17,000 Brooklyn waterfront workers. Fraternal delegates to the council are two teamsters officials, Tom Hickey and Johnny Strong, referred to by the McClellan Committee as honest teamsters.

Thus, one group of leaders have the power to summon a council session and jointly call a strike. Such a call can throw the brakes on all turning wheels, afloat, over the road, on the streets and on the rails. This is "joint action" all the way. This is what happened when the 660 tug boat workers struck last week and decided to picket rail yards clear through to Chicago and St. Louis, if necessary, to win a "beef" in New York harbor.

Paul Hall and his colleagues have other joint councils of which the nation will hear shortly. There is, for example, the National Committee for Maritime Bargaining. In this group, there have been joined together eight major maritime unions. They have more than 70,000 seamen and ship's officers. They have agreed on "a unified national approach" to bargaining with shippers whose crafts ply the oceans, the rivers and the Great Lakes. They cover 90 per cent of U.S. shipping. There is no doubt the National Committee can call on the New York Port Council — or any such joint action juggernauts.

Unions Melding

Such joint councils are not sprouting only on our docks. They are springing up across the country in industry after industry.

This is the most militant joint action there is. This time it gave Nelson Rockefeller sleepless nights. Automation is moving in tighter and tighter. Unions are drawing closer and closer in an effort to slow the transition from an economy of workers in overalls to an economy of service men and engineers and clerks in white collars.

Soon national "joint action" will force the lights to blaze all night in the White House.

Hearing on Party Permit System Slated Feb. 1

MADISON (AP)—Wisconsin's controversial party permit deer hunting system will get an airing in legislative halls Feb. 1.

Conservation committees of the Assembly and Senate announced today they will meet jointly to take up four bills. Because a large crowd is expected, the hearing will be held in the spacious Assembly chambers.

Three bills call for outright repeal of the law which permits hunting parties of four or more, the right to kill an extra deer, and then he said he'd have to. Another bill would authorize the Conservation Commission to designate areas where party permits could be used and to limit the size of parties.

John F. Sullivan

Washington, D. C. Died unexpectedly from a heart attack on Thursday, Jan. 19, in Washington, D.C. He was born Aug. 18, 1912 in New York City. Mr. Sullivan was the husband of the former Esther Flanagan, daughter of Henry T. Flanagan Sr., of Bear Creek. The Sullivans were frequent visitors to the Fox River Valley. A graduate of St. John University, New York City, where he received B.B.A., L.L.B., and J.S.D. degrees. He also received advanced management engineering training at George Washington University and was a member of the New York State Bar Association and the Delta Phi Upsilon accounting and the Phi Delta Phi legal societies. He was also admitted to practice before the Supreme Court of the United States. Mr. Sullivan worked in the field office of the Federal Bureau of Investigation in Washington, D.C. at the time of his death. He had also been the bureau's liaison representative with the Secretary of the Army, the Chief and Assistant Chiefs of Staff, and the Director of the Joint Chiefs of Staff. During his early career with the FBI he served in the Milwaukee office where his territory included the Fox River Valley area. He also served in the Salt Lake City and New York offices in this country and saw service in the Lima, Peru and Jamaica offices in a top level policy liaison position. While working out of the Washington, D.C. office he made intelligence surveys in Asia, Africa and the Southwest Pacific as well as in the Middle and Near East. Mr. Sullivan is survived by his widow, Esther Sullivan who resides at 2480 16th St., N. W., Washington, D.C. Funeral services were held Monday, Jan. 23 at Sacred Heart Church, Washington, D.C. after which the body was taken to the Abbey, New York City, where it lay in state prior to interment in New York City.

Market Sags Irregularly

Early Afternoon Trading Active At New York

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market sagged irregularly early this afternoon in active trading.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was off .20 at 230.40 with industrials down .20, rails up .30, and utilities down .30.

Losses of fractions to a point among leading issues predominated by gains in the same range.

Aircraft-missile stocks were a soft spot as Wall Street pondered implications of the freeing by Moscow of two survivors of the RB47 plane. The possibility of a lessening of East-West tensions and of disarmament brought nervousness in regard to the defense-related issues. Uncertainty prevailed regarding President Kennedy's forthcoming State of the Union speech.
